Petition circulators target

Four face charges of election fraud

By GEORGE MALEK

Criminal charges were expected to filed Friday afternoon in Washington C.H. Municipal Court against four persons who circulated referendum petitions to repeal the city's one-half per cent income tax during March.

After two weeks of investigation by the Washington C.H. Police Department, a report has been delivered to city solicitor Gary D. Smith, who will file the charges.

Smith met with Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott, two investigating officers, and City Manager George H. Shapter Friday morning in the city office building to discuss the information obtained by the officers.

The preliminary report indicated "gross irregularities," according to one city official. It was also noted, however, that from the statements of those that signed, it appeared many of the signers had been misled by those circulating the documents. In addition to the charges being filed immediately, other charges are expected next week. Officials refused to comment on whether these were likely to be individual signers or others who circulated the petitions. Police officers are continuing their investigation.

The law makes some distinction between persons who signed the name of another while knowing the other party would like to sign. In many cases, those who signed names other than their own did so for their husband or wife. Although a violation of law, it is covered by a lesser penalty than a blatant attempt to defraud.

The circulators, however, sign the documents before a notary stating that they witnessed the signature of each person whose name appears. The penalty outlined on the petitions themselves warns of a possible six-month jail sentence and a fine of $1,000.

Police officers stated that those persons contacted had been extremely cooperative. Statements were reportedly obtained from every individual whose signature had appeared

No grants of immunity from prosecution were given to those who offered statements, but cooperation will be considered when their cases are reviewed.

Only one member of the Citizens for Responsible Government committee could be contacted Friday morning. Homer Penwell, 230 Green St., refused to comment on the filing of criminal charges. Faye Washburn, 716 S. North

St., and Barbara Saxton, 543 Warren Ave., could not be reached.

Ten petitions calling for a referendum vote on the former city income tax ordinance had been filed with the city auditor on April 30.

Penwell, representing the Citizens for Responsible Government com-mittee, and William F. Stolzenburg, 804 Maple St., presented the petitions to Stackhouse. The 10 documents included some 528 signatures.

Some 50 of the signatures appeared questionable to city officials who had them checked by a hand-writing

After a preliminary report from a hand-writing specialist, police officers contacted those persons whose names remained in question. The information collected was then turned over to the city solicitor for prosecution.

The investigation and prosecution of individuals who may have fraudently signed or circulated the petitions was authorized by a resolution of Washington C.H. City Council passed

At the same time, Council repealed the one-half per cent ordinance against which the petitions were filed and enacted a new half per cent tax measure.

City auditor Jack Stackhouse later declared that since the former tax ordinance had been passed as emergency legislation, the petitions did not apply anyway.

The Citizens for Responsible Government committee had claimed that the emergency clause of the ordinance was not legally enacted, and therefore, the tax was subject to a referendum vote.

Cash flow cut sought

State hiring freeze ordered by governor

freeze on all state departments, agencies and institutions was ordered effective today by Gov. James A. Rhodes during a cabinet meeting.

Rhodes also instructed his department heads to review state purchasing requests and to approve orders on items which are needed to maintain critical state services.

"This action is needed to help us cope with cash flow problems next year,' Rhodes said in a prepared statement.

The Office of Budget and Management estimates a cash shortage of $230 million for next January, Rhodes said.

"We estimate this freeze will result in savings of $10 million during the remainder of the biennium," Rhodes

Exceptions to the hiring freeze will be made by the director of the budget office to provide health, safety or other vital services. Staffs of elected officials are not effected by the freeze. Rhodes announced a cutback in state workers last year by two per cent to

The possibility of another mass layoff is being evaluated now, ODOT Director Richard D. Jackson said, because the employes to be reinstated "were supernumerary when they were laid off a year ago and we still don't need

Jackson said possible cancellation of highway job lettings as well as new being considered in order to solve a financial dilemma resulting from the court's decision.

The high court overturned a ruling by the Franklin County Common Pleas Court which said Jackson was not bound by an order of the state Personnel Board of Review to reinstate the laid off employes. In making its ruling the supreme court said the department had no right to appeal the board's reinstatement orders. The high court also held that the lower court exceeded its authority in hearing Jackson's appeal from the board.

The 345 employes were among 607 ODOT workers laid off because of budget constraints. The layoffs represented 6 per cent of the department's work force.

Jackson said at the time the layoffs were caused by decreasing fuel tax revenues, which fund the department, coupled with increasing highway construction costs.

'We lost on a technicality," Jackson said. "The only recourse is legislative." He said he planned to ask for legislation that would permit a department director to challenge decisions by the board of review "when the interest of the state is being subjugated."

Jackson estimated the cost to the taxpayer to rehire the employes will be approximately $3 million a year, based on the average hourly pay rate of $5.49.

Tax revision bill faces hurdles

revision bill designed to stem unvoted closer to a vote in the Senate, but quick passage of the heavily rewritten version appears doubtful. The tax bill, which now carries an effective date of Sept. 1, 1978, was recommended for passage by a subcommittee on Thursday, sending it to the full Senate Ways and Means Com-

That committee has scheduled a hearing on the bill Monday night, and a vote in committee could send the measure to the Senate floor.

But the chance for passage before the legislature's target adjournment late next week appeared questionable. The bill's author, Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, said it is unacceptable to the House in its present form, meaning the measure would have to go to a conference committee after Senate approval for drafting of a compromise.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the bill may not go to Gov. James A. Rhodes until June, when the General Assembly returns to the Capitol for a brief session.

The bill was passed by the House with a flurry of publicity early this year. It was prompted in part by citizen receipt of 1975 tax bills, which included unvoted hikes in those counties undergoing their sexennial reappraisal. The hikes, occurring because of inflation's effect on property values, doubled and tripled bills in some cases. As passed in the House, the legislation would have frozen tax revenues at their 1975 levels. Tax credits would be given homeowners to keep their tax bills relatively stable. In the Senate, however, the effective date of the bill was changed from 1976 to 1978. That would mean two more years of tax bills under present law. Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, said the new effective date allows the present six-year cycle of property reappraisals to be completed. An effective date this year would come two-thirds of the way through the present reappraisal cycle and may nonuniform property valuations which have been outlawed by the Supreme Court, she said.

The bill relies for short term tax relief upon a present Board of Tax Appeals order freezing property appraisals at their 1975 levels. Subcommittee members said the order, which budget analysts say will amount to a $99 million tax cut over the next two years, will prevent undue hardship on taxpayers while allowing equalization.

After the 1978 effective date, local real property tax revenues would be frozen at their 1978 levels, with the tax credit plan implemented beginning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A tax with tax bills received in January 1979. hikes in property taxes has moved of the measure said the bill would cut features of another bill, which xes on real estate by about $91 million in tax year 1978.

However, the net effect to local government would be a $31 million increase in tax revenues in 1978 and a $63 million increase in revenues in 1979.

The apparent contradiction comes from an increase in property taxes on business equipment and inventory and upon public utility property included in the measure.

"The overall result of this bill would actually be an increase in total property tax revenues, with tangible personal (business) and public utility property assuming a greater share of the tax burden," the budget office analysis said.

The rewritten version of the bill also A Legislative Budget Office analysis incorporates tax administration establish es a Division of Equalization to handle the ministrative functions of the present Board of Tax Appeals (BTA).

> But unlike the other tax administration bill, which abolishes the BTA and establishes a judicial tax court, the Senate revision keeps the BTA as a quasijudicial body to hear tax

The House sponsor, Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, said he was particularly unhappy with that feature.

'After 16 or 18 months of work on this, I'm sort of hung up on that Tax Court of Appeals," Johnson said.

Daylight time sets spring appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) - Daylight begins Sunday. Saving Time Remember, it's spring ahead, fall

If you like to stroll, swat a tennis ball or water the garden in the evening, then come Sunday you'll have an extra hour of light to indulge in all your favorite pastimes. But if you're a farmer or like to jog before breakfast well, sorry.

Either way, clocks move forward Sunday one hour for the six months of Daylight Saving Time (DST) from 2 a.m. Sunday to 2 a.m. Oct. 31. And, if you get confused on which direction to move the hands, just remember the saying, "Spring ahead, fall back."

The extra hour may come in handy for Congress as it grapples with proposals to change the system of six months of DST and six months of stand-Earlier this year, the Senate passed a bill to provide seven months of DST this year and next, from mid-March until mid-October. But inaction by the House Commerce Committee kept it from taking effect in time for the spring.

A House commerce subcommittee has tentatively scheduled DST hearings for next month, but they could be delayed further because other types of legislation are deemed more important.

Until some sort of bill clears both houses of Congress, the nation remains on the pattern of six months of DST and six months of standard time each year. The move to extend DST was begun in late 1973 during the peak of the energy crisis. Some advocates contended that longer evening daylight hours, when most persons are awake, can result in an energy savings. But those opposing DST argue that less daylight in morning endangers school children and inconveniences farmers. They also said DST saved little, if any, energy The change to DST will occur across the nation except in Arizona, Hawaii and parts of Indiana. ******************************

Investigate Boston blast; 22 injuries

BOSTON (AP) - Recent racial violence in Boston could have created the climate for a bombing at the Suffolk County Courthouse in which 22 persons were injured, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis

"At this time - and I stress at this time — there is no evidence linking that bombing with the racial incidents which have occurred in the city during the past month," the governor said in a televised address Thursday night.

"But there is no question that the violence that has plagued this city has created a climate of hatred and irrationality which could give rise to senseless acts such as this morning's bombing.

The governor announced creation of a special police unit made up of city, county, state and federal officers to investigate crimes of violence. He also said such cases would be taken directly to grand juries, bypassing the district

A march in downtown Boston against violence sponsored by Mayor Kevin H. White was to be held today. The governor and prominent churchmen said they would join the procession.

But City Council President Louise Day Hicks, a leading opponent of busing for school integration; the antibusing group ROAR (Restore Our Alienated Rights); and the Boston Police Patrolman's Association said they would not participate.

Joseph Connolly of Charlestown, a ROAR spokesman, said the group "cannot in good conscience join these people for a march that will accomplish nothing. Only when forced busing is ended will Boston's human liberty be returned.'

Les Hurt of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said wholesale prices for coffee are now running at $2.09 for a one-pound can. Retail prices, he said, "are changing so fast that it's hard to keep up with them."

But Hurt noted that the "retail

(price) very often runs below the wholesale level" because stores use coffee as a "loss leader" to entice customers. The difference is usually only a few cents.

Does that mean coffee for $2 and up at retail? "Yes," said Hurt, adding that it takes a couple of months for the wholesale price to be reflected on supermarket shelves.

The country's two largest coffee marketers — General Foods Corp. and Folger Coffee Co., a division of Procter & Gamble Co. - both announced increases at the wholesale level this week. General Foods said the price of green coffee beans has more than doubled since last July and that commodity costs represent 80 per cent of its manufacturing cost.

Hurt, who is with the sugar and tropical products division of the USDA's foreign agricultural service, also said the higher wholesale prices reflect higher prices for raw coffee

A pound of raw coffee beans currently is selling for about $1.25 to $1.30, up from about 70 cents at this time last year. There is a 16 per cent loss in roasting, meaning, for example, that 100 pounds of raw beans purchased for $125 winds up as 84 pounds of roasted beans worth almost $1.50 per pound, not counting the cost of the roasting procedure. The cost of packing, distribution and marketing still must be added.

The present supply of coffee is adequate, although it is below last year's. Hurt said that estimated world coffee production for the 1975-76 crop year is just under 72 million bags; the 1974-75 production was a little more than 80 million bags. A bag is a little more than 132 pounds

Prices for raw coffee beans have been rising steadily since last July when a severe frost struck Brazil, the world's biggest coffee producer.

The frost struck the crop that will be harvested this year, and people started buying coffee in expectation of a shortage. The current high prices, Hurt said, are "in anticipation of tight supplies.

Hurt, who just returned from a trip to Brazil, said the South American country produced 23 million bags of coffee in the 1975-76 crop year. The 1976-77 production had been expected to be about 28 million bags. Instead. Hurt said, estimated production is 91/2 or 10 million bags.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market declined broadly today as investors studied the latest jump in the nation's money supply.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points and declining New York Stock Exchange issues held a wide lead on those rising

Prices had started falling late in the day Thursday as profit taking set in on the market's heady advance earlier in the week. After the close Thursday, the Federal Reserve Board reported that the nation's money supply jumped by $3.4 billion in the latest reporting week. It was the third straight rise in the money supply and brought its growth rate over nine per cent for the past month — above the Fed's 7½ per cent long range target growth rate.

If the money supply rises too rapidly, the Fed's could move to push up interest rates, a bearish influence on the stock market.

Early prices today included Dow Chemical, down 1/2 at 1093/4; Eastman Kodak, off 3/4 at 1113/4; and Chrysler, down 3/8 to 20.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average declined 3.31 to 1,007.71, turning down in mid-afternoon from an earlier advance of more than

Volkswagen to assemble cars in U.S.

WOLFSBURG, West Germany (AP) A major board controlling Volkswagen decided today to give basic approval to a long-delayed $200 million facility in the United States, possibly in

Two major factions of the supervisory board--labor and government-had already cleared the way for approval. The entire board confronted the proposal today.

Today's decision by the supervisory which had been widely predicted, was announced after a 51/2hour meeting of the 21 members who oversee VW's top management.

Selection of the site is the responsibility of a second VW board called the management board, rather than the supervisory board. When the management board would announce its decision was not known.

One of the locations in Ohio under consideration is a 2.4 million square foot facility adjacent to Cleveland Hopkins International Airport. It was built during World War II and produced B29 bombers and P75 fighters.

Another location in Ohio first mentioned today was in Columbus, Ohio. Arthur R. Railton, vice president for corporation relations of Volkswagen of American, said he understood three U.S. cities, including New Stanton, Pa., were running for the assembly plant. Columbus was initially mentioned by

There was no immediate indication where the plant would be located in Columbus. State development officials declined comment.

The Cleveland facility, in the suburb of Brook Park, was now the favorite, according to Railton.

Revamped CIA seen after leader changes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Changes being made in the CIA leadership could mean the agency's "dirty tricks" division is losing influence and that the agency will place more emphasis on analyzing intelligence data than on cloak-and-dagger operations.

The White House announced Thursday the resignation of Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters as CIA deputy director and the nomination of E. Henry Knoche, a civilian, as his replacement.

One source familiar with the change said Knoche's nomination reflects a new CIA emphasis on analysis of intelligence data and away from the type of clandestine operations that drew heavy criticism during hearings by House and Senate intelligence com-

In testimony before those panels it was revealed that the CIA had conducted domestic spying operations, had been involved in plots to assassinate foreign leaders and had plotted such bizarre operations as a plan to make Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's beard fall out.

In response to criticism for such activities, CIA officials have insisted that the agency's prime mission was collecting and analyzing information rather than "dirty tricks.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to everybody for all the cards, flowers and gifts which I received during my stay in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Until recently, the agency's top officials have risen through the ranks of overseas operatives in the CIA's plans division, sometimes referred to as the

'dirty tricks' department. CIA Director George Bush's two predecessors, William E. Colby and Richard Helms, both came to the top from that background. On the other hand, Bush has a background in do-mestic politics and U.S. diplomacy. Thus, the agency's new leadership of Bush and Knoche represents a break from that tradition. Another hallmark is that for the first time since the agency began in 1947, neither of the top two officials is a military man.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said the choice of Knoche also reflects Bush's wish "to build his own team. Under President Ford's CIA reorganization there is a second deputy directorship, being filled by Vice Adm. Daniel Murphy, whose appointment, unlike Knoche's, does not require Senate confirmation. Knoche, 51, will be responsible for day-to-day operations of the CIA. Knoche, a native of Charleston,

W.Va., joined the CIA in 1953 following service with the Navy in Korea. He was first an analyst specializing in political and military affairs, then became executive director of the agency's national photographic interpretation center. Later, he was deputy director of planning and budget activities and deputy director of the office of current intelligence. He also worked in the office of strategic research and last year was named associate deputy Walters, 59, was named deputy director by former President Richard M. Nixon in 1969. Nessen said that after a 35-year military career, Walters believed himself "overdue to get out of the Army.'

NEW YORK (AP) — It was as though an occult hand had plucked Mary Hartman off the set of "Mary Hart-man, Mary Hartman," renamed her Louise Lasser and left her stranded on the East Coast, discussing her muchdiscussed series.

Whatever happened, Miss Lasser, a fine actress who plays Mary, wound up braving Fun City's Fourth Estate in the Ambassador Room of some hotel here this week. No doubt she later wondered what Norman Lear hath wrought.

She was 20 minutes late for what the press agent called "an informal press reception." During the wait, scribes chatted, smoked, drank coffee and a young photographer said, "Gee, I don't see any TV people.'

But there was a TV people reporter from WNEW, a New York station that airs "Mary Hartman" each week night after the local news.

When Miss Lasser arrived, clad in peasant shirt and faded denims and sipping a glass of grapefruit juice, there was scattered applause and heavy clicking of camera shutters.

She smiled and walked to a podium. About 15 photographers clustered around her. They shot pictures for at least five minutes.

"God, I hope you all have film in there," she mused, The photogs drew in tighter and tighter. Fortunately, the news conference began.

"How much input do you have in the writing of the show?" one reporter asked. The question and attempted reply disappeared in the cloud of babble that tends to rise from New York press

Later, in answering another question, Miss Lasser said she was on a week's break, had taped 90 shows so far and would do 40 more to complete the first "Mary Hartman" season.

After that, "it's totally up in the air," she said, explaining that a second season depends on how negotiations go with stations that now air or would like to air the soap opera-comedy in which she stars.

The photographers kept clicking away. Miss Lasser was asked, "Are you becoming Mary?"

"I'm having a problem with it," she conceded, noting that doing five shows a week tends to cause a fusion between her Mary Hartman character and the reality of her own life.

How would Mary behave at a news conference like this, she was asked. 'She'd be much funnier," she replied with a grin.

The conference was nearing an end. So the only TV reporter attending it stood where viewers could see the news conference he was covering.

He nodded at his film cameraman, picked up his microphone and began talking at the camera in a soft voice. He said he had "a story about Louise Lasser discussing 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman.'

Purer air and water

On a nationwide basis Americans are breathing purer air and drinking purer water than than they were five years ago, but there is still a long ways to go in improving these aspects of our environment. This is the central message of the sixth annual report by the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

Progress in reducing of the air and of water supplies has been slower than need be. Economic and political factors have prevented the application of stringent measures which might have speeded up the

Still, the figures are heartening. The Council reports the following declines in various elements in air pollution: hydrocarbons 5 per cent; sulfur oxides 8 per cent; carbon monoxide 12 per cent; smoke and dust 29 per cent. These are significant air purity gains. Tests at stations around the country also indicate marked improvement in water quality. Poor or severe water quality conditions were found by only 3 per cent of the stations in 1974, the Commission reports, in comparison with 16 per cent in 1961.

The per capita cost was $47 in 1974, and rising. Yet that is little enough to pay for reversing the trend toward a steadily worsening environment.

Without chrome from Rhodesia we're dead

Chrome! It's not the metal the Spaniards devastated the cultures of the Aztecs and Incas to bring back to Europe, but it happens to be an absolute necessity for every country in the West that depends on high technology for its freedom. That makes it more precious than gold or silver.

To the average consumer, chrome is just something that is used to give his car a flashy appearance or to keep rust out of kitchenware. Not a precious

There could be no space program without chrome. Nuclear submarines are dependent on it. So are jet planes. Ditto for missiles. Moreover, much of the communications structure of a modern society would fall to pieces without this metal.

Politically, this puts the West in a terrible bind. Two-thirds of the available chrome ore comes from Rhodesia. There is chrome in Russia, in Turkey and in South Africa. The South African chrome is of poor quality and must be mixed with Rhodesian ore for good results. U.S. sources petered out economically some time ago, and what is left in the ground in this country would require such high-cost exploitation that it would be cheaper to pay through the nose to the Russians and Turks for what they would be willing to sell.

In the case of war involving Russia, we would get nothing. The Turks could be another problem; we have not exactly pleased them by our failure to back their aspirations against the Greeks in Cyprus.

The point is that we are probably destined to be wholly dependent on the good will of whatever black government may succeed the minority white regime of Ian Smith in Rhodesia. With two million blacks against 250,000 whites, it is hardly likely that majority rule can be denied in Rhodesia forever.

Political parties on way out?

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) - Americans' rejections of institutions as the nation becomes increasingly democratic is one reason Sen. Henry Jackson is having a hard time in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, a political scientist says.

Nonetheless, Dr. Kenneth Kolson, Hiram College professor and a coauthor of a new political science text-book, predicts Jackson, D-Wash., will win the Democratic nomination and will face Republican President Ford in November.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter 'is running hard, but he will be stopped at the convention by Jackson," Kolson said in a recent interview.

"It's ironic, but as America becomes more and more democratic, and affluent and less and less corrupt; as the old political machines die off, as old institutions fade away and politics becomes more acceptable, more middle class; we get less and less tolerant of all those vestiges of the past like political leaders and political parties, Kolson said.

He described political parties as "fundamentally good institutions." He said he would hate to see them disappear but that the nation appears to be headed to a no-party system based on the appeal of nonpartisanship.

The problem in today's politics isn't how to give more power to people but

The candidates for the presidential nomination are all "decent men, probably competent and honest," he said. But the problem is that nobody expects more than that, he added.

"Not only do the people have low expectations of those running, but the candidates have low expectations of themselves," the professor said. "They tell people what they want to hear."

The country needs a bold president and will embrace a candidate of that type wholeheartedly, should one appear, Kolson said.

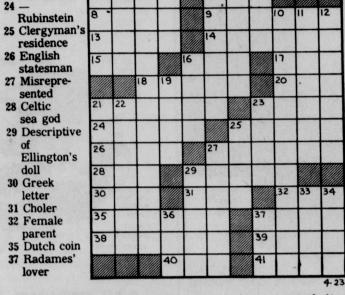

"We've become cavalier in debunking America's place in the world by assuming the Russians and Chinese are really nice guys after all. We should get back to a man we could revere as president," he said.

A Ford-Jackson race would offer voters "at least a choice between two pretty sober, decent, honest men," he added.

Kolson, a graduate of Allegheny College and the University of Kentucky, has taught at Hiram for six years. He became head of the political science department in 1974. He also taught Hiram's program in Canadian politics in 1972 at Ottawa and at John Cabot International College in Rome, Italy, last year.

DEAR ABBY: Buddy, a guy I work with, likes to fish and so do I, so last weekend he and I went on a fishing trip. When we came home and Buddy met my wife for the first time, he looked her up and down, and then he turned to me and said, "Hey man, you must be nuts to leave a beautiful gal like that alone for the weekend."

Do you think I was? LIKES TO FISH

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, April 23, the 114th day of 1976. There are 252 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1564, William Shakespeare was born at Stratford-on-Avon in England. He died on the same date in 1616. On this date-In 1789, President-elect and Mrs.

George Washington moved into the first presidential mansion at the corner of Franklin and Cherry Streets in New York City. In 1792, the French national anthem,

"La Marseillaise," was written. In 1838, the first regular trans-

Atlantic steamship service began as the "Sirius" and "Great Western" arrived in New York from England. In 1940, more than 200 people died in a dance hall fire at Natchez, Miss.

In 1941, during World War II, King George II of Greece fled to the island of Crete after German troops had broken through the Thermopolae Pass In 1945, American and Russian forces met at Torgau in East Germany. Ten years ago: U.S. Air Force jets shot down two Soviet-built MIGs in a five-minute aerial battle 65 miles north of Hanoi in North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Federal troops were alerted for possible duty in Washington, D.C., as thousands of anti-Vienam War demonstrators converged on the capital. Oneyear ago: The South Vietnamese

Cabinet resigned as pani gripped Saigon, and President Ford declared that the Vietnam War was over. Today's birthdays: Ambassador Shirley Temple Black is 48. General

U.S. religious affiliation growing

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Although present-day Christians are inclined to romanticize fondly about church vitality in early America and to bemoan the increasing secularization of modern culture, religious affiliation today is far greater than in the period of the nation's origins.

Historians point out that church membership has gone upward almost steadily in the 200 years of U.S. history, not down, and that it now constitutes a proportion of the population six times greater than in the country's early

The idea that American church activity once flourished and has "subsequently declined is false and the historical perspective involved is unsound," says the Rev. Dr. Franklin Littell, a religious historian of H. Littell, a rengious Philadelphia's Temple University.

America in its early years overwhelmingly unchurched and heathen, regardless of pretensions and public claims," he writes in his book. 'From State Church to Pluralism. However, he also notes that requirements for church membership then were much stiffer than now.

This is the sort of probing, factual look at the nation's religious heritage that is scheduled next week. April 25-30, in Philadelphia at an ecumenical Bicentennial conference on religious liberty, sponsored by Protestant, Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Jewish bodies.

A church historian of New York's Union Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. Robert T. Handy, says that no more than 10 per cent of the U.S. population belonged to churches in the post-Revolution period, although greater disciplines for church membership then meant participants doubtlessly exceeded formal membership. Nevertheless, the present-day religious affiliation involves about 62 per cent of the population, showing an immense growth compared with the small minority included in the earlier

Even in preindependence colonial times, actual voting church membership involved only a fractional minority, and required not only belief and adherence to church duties, but testimony of a particular "experience" of God's redeeming grace. Without such an experience, full membership was denied This meant that even members' offspring, though baptized, might not be acceptable, resulting in a formula by which they became "half-way covenanters," that is conditional partners to the covenant between God and humanity, thus eligible for communion, but without rights of full membership. In the post-Revolution period, the church "picture was not very promising," Dr. Handy writes in his book. "A Christian America." He notes that not only had membership shrunk, but other factors jolted the churches. State-established churches gradually were being dismantled, cutting off churches from state support and compelling them to make it on their own by voluntary support. Many pulpits were empty, historians say, and American religious institutions were at their weakest ebb.

'The Magic of Bonsai' is topic of Posy Garden Club meeting

The Posy Garden Club held its annual Open Meeting Wednesday in the annex of the Madison Mills United Methodist Church. Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, program chairman, introduced Col. Don Mortenson from the Ohio State University Cooperative Extension service for the program "Bonsai." Mr. Mortenson is a graduate of Brigham Young University, served in the Air Force for five years and is now a Lt. Colonel in thee USAF Reserves. He is also STAKE president of the Morman Church in Ohio.

Col. Mortenson showed slides of Bonsai trees, taken in Japan and displayed many of his own plants. He explained that there is nothing mysterious magic in growing the miniature trees. When one understands the methods of confining and pruning the roots and pruning and shaping the branches, one will have a plant of beauty that can live forever. Many Japanese bonsai are two and three hundred years old.

Nearly any woody plant or tree can be made into a bonsai. He has a beautiful white azalea, houseplant, that blooms every year, also a pomegranet that blooms and bears fruit. He still has his first bonsai, a Juniper, that is now 20 years old and a beautiful specimen.

He has found the growing of bonsai a great hobby, a source of much pleasure with a minimum of effort and has worked with many experts in the field. Mrs. Jess Schlichter, president, conducted a short business meeting preceding the program. She read an invitation to a May 5 Spring Flower

Show from the Open Gate Garden Club at the Newport Community Hall, and announced the Region 16 Spring meeting in Hillsboro on May 13. Mrs. Dorothy Bihl announced the winners of the Ecology Contest held annually for the fifth grade at Madison Mills Elementary School. They were Donna Massie, Thomas Dunn, Sherry Kaser and Allen Hale.

The club members exchanged perennial plants and distributed trees and purchased in the OAAGC tree sale. Mrs. Hary Thrailkill will be in charge of making a mobile for the Fayette assisted by several members. Mrs. Arthur Schlichter told of a recent visit to the large Bonsai Gardens near Sarasota, Fla.

COLONIAL CHICKEN.. an old-fashioned treat with modern ease.

Aroma of baked chicken recalls 'good old days'

Kitchen Nostalgia

.memories of coming home from church to be met by the smells of chicken baking in the iron stove's

That's how one historian of American foods described the "period of abundance" in the late 19th century when on farms and in small towns home was a place where contentment prevailed and family life often centered around the dining table.

Through the years, whole baked chicken has been a favorite meal all across the nation. In earlier times, chicken was considered a very special treat, served "only on Sunday" and important occasions.

Now, an efficient broiler-fryer industry has made chicken an affordable family food any day, any season of the year. Still, whole baked chicken is the frequent first choice of discerning homemakers for entertaining as well as for notable family meals.

There are several reasons for this. First, baked chicken can be readily turned into a gourmet dish simply by a choice of seasonings. Second, almost everyone likes the natural goodness of chicken so you can depend on it as a main dish your guests will enjoy.

Also baked chicken is easily prepared; it cooks while you turn your attention to the rest of the meal. Nutritionally, chicken provides high quality protein — and it's low in calories. To top it all off, chicken is easy on the budget. While the price of most foods has been soaring, chicken costs no more today than it did 25 years

National Broiler Council suggests baking two whole birds the next time you entertain. Season with lemon juice and herbs, such as basil or tarragon. Serve them with flair on the same platter, to be carved at the table. Or, for a truly old-fashioned treat with modern ease, try the recipe for Colonial Chicken (below). It's a chicken dish any of the Founding Fathers might have enjoyed. COLONIAL CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, whole ½ lemon

1 teaspoon salt 2 small apples, quartered

8 links sausage 1/4 cup applebutter

1/4 cup honey

Rub cavity of chicken with salt. Cut lemon in half and rub outer surface of chicken with juice. Stuff cavity with apple quarters and sausage and tie legs and wings with thread.

Baste entire surface of chicken with honey and applebutter which have been mixed together. Place chicken on foillined, 9x13 pan; lightly cover with foil. Bake in 325 degrees F. oven about one hour or until done. Remove foil for last few minutes to brown chicken and baste again with honey-applebutter mixture. Serve an apple quarter and sausage link with each quarter serving.

BASIC BAKED CHICKEN

2 broiler-fryer chickens, whole 2 teaspoons salt

Sprinkle neck and body cavities of whole chickens with salt. If desired, stuff with favorite stuffing. Hook wing tip onto back to hold neck skin and tie legs together, then to tail. Place chickens directly in a shallow pan; it is not necessary to use a rack. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven for 1 1/2 hours or until tender (add 15 minutes to total baking time when chicken is stuffed)

Makes 8 servings

For variations: Chicken may be brushed with salad oil, shortening, butter or margarine and seasoned with any of the following herbs - basil, tarragon, rosemary

Or rub outer surface of chickens with lemon juice, add herbs and bake.

Celery tops and-or onions may be used for seasoning. Or, the chicken may be baked with fresh fruits and a choice of seasonings.

Quick and easy tuna dishes

How to stretch your travel dollars abroad

If you are planning a trip to Paris and for eign exchange is Greek to you. you'll need to prepare more than just an itinerary

Thousands of Americans are expected to rediscover their roots in Europe this bicentennial summer. For many it will be a first trip abroad. Learning to stretch a travel dollar may be the most important ingredient for a pleasant time.

Several months before you depart, learn about the stability and fluctuation of money in the countries you will visit. Depending upon the movement of the currency in those countries, your U.S. dollar may be worth more now than later.

"It is a good idea for summer travelers to West Germany and Switzerland to buy travelers checks now, denominated in Deutsche marks and Swiss francs," said Richard E. Whiteside, president of the Huntington Bank of Washington C.H.

'This is because the U.S. dollar may decline in value relative to the Swiss franc and Deutsche mark over the next few months

'However," Whiteside continued, "travelers to France and Italy should consider carrying U.S. dollar travelers checks with them and converting their dollars to French francs and Italian lira as needed while they are in those countries. This is due to anticipation of further strengthening of the U.S. dollar against the currencies of these coun-

In what form should your foreign money be? You have three choices: currency, travelers checks or drafts.

At least a small amount of currency is necessary to use until travelers checks or drafts can be cashed. The currency of some foreign countries may not be readily available locally so give your bank at least two weeks

Travelers checks are best cashed at a local bank in the foreign country for the most advantageous exchange. Hotels, restaurants and shops may charge a higher rate and you'll be the loser.

A foreign draft there is purchased here at an agreed upon exchange rate and payable at a specified European bank. Although he there is no hassle about the rate, these are preferable as a back-up to other types of exchange because of their limited cashing provision. For example, you must cash a draft at a specific foreign bank in a specific town.

It would be advisable to redeem you currency at the airport branch of the local bank before you return home.

Just one last tip: Watch for posted rates for the best exchange. And be aware that the typical practice in Europe is to quote the U.S. rate in terms of foreign currency. This is just the opposite of the practice in this country. For instance, we say one Deutsche mark equals 40 cents. Posted rates in Germany will indicate $1 equals 2.50 Deutsche marks.

How well you do your homework may be the difference between fun and

Fresh violence shakes Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - More than 100 persons were killed during the night and more than 200 wounded in heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire between a Moslem enclave in Beirut and Christian districts around it, police reported today

They said some homes were destroyed in the Nabaa Moslem district and the adjacent Sin El-Fil and Dora quarters. More bodies were believed in the ruins, they reported.

Fighting in the year-old civil war had tapered off Thursday, and only 27 killed and 46 wounded were reported. But hopes that the cease-fire agreed to last weekend was taking hold were badly shaken by the outbreak during the Palestinian leader Abu Iyad, the second in command of Yasir Arafat's Al Fatah guerrilla organization, said the truce cannot take hold until the political stalemate between the leftist Lebanese Moslems and right-wing Christians is resolved.

He said the Higher Military Committee trying to put the cease-fire into effect "agrees on things, but they are not carried out on the battlefields. The problem now is Lebanese and related to a political solution.

Iyad was referring to the refusal of the Christian president, Suleiman Franjieh, to transmit to Parliament his endorsement of a constitutional amendment clearing the way for his replacement before his term expires.

Franjieh met today with special U.S. envoy L. Dean Brown before Brown left for London to report to Secretary of

get together. Brown met Thursday night with the leader of the Moslem leftists, Kamal Jumblatt, who earlier Thursday threatened to establish a socialist Moslem state unless Franjieh quit in 10

Review bid by Ohio Bell

Public Utilities Commission of Ohio will take several months to review testimony made during 75 days of hearings on a $214 million rate increase requested by Ohio Bell Telephone Co., a PUCO spokesman says.

The spokesman said the staff is reviewing 15,000 pages of testimony in the hearings which ended Tuesday. A decision will not come until at least this summer, the spokesman said.

Among the new rates sought by Ohio Bell is an increase in charges for pay phones to 20 cents per call, charges of 20 cents for information calls after the first three per month and a 37 per cent boost in long distance charges within

Other changes in the rate structure include an increase in installation charges for home phones from $16 to about $36.50, an increase in private residential rates from $8 to $10 and changes in business and optional equipment charges.

Quarterly report reviewed by Help Anonymous board

The advisory board for Help Anonymous, the information and referral service for elderly Fayette Countians, met Wednesday.

Mrs. Marsha Davis, coordinator, presented the quarterly report.

From January 1 through March 31, the service received 627 incoming contacts. A total of 201 outgoing calls to assist clients and follow-up reports were made. Housing, financial assistance, and home-help services for persons unable to completely care for themselves were among those areas of services needed and not always available. A concern for the need for qualified persons to stay with senior citizens in their homes was discussed by the board. It was suggested that Mrs. Davis meet with the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services to see if a plan could be worked on to train persons in this area.

Funds for the information and referral service will probably run out by December 31 as there is a $2,500 shortage in the budget for the year.

Various proposals for raising money were discussed.

Mrs. Davis reported she had spoken to three groups during the quarter, assisted in setting up eight Golden Buckeye registration sites and was working with the Council of Elderly Concerns and the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council to form the Fayette County Committee on Aging. This will be the group responsible for screening and submitting proposals for aging programs in the county.

The first organization of Spanish American War Veterans was formed in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Uranium influence peddling denied

Bechtel Corp., a major partner in Uranium Enrichment Associates, which is proposing a private enrichment plant, says two former White House officials, now Bechtel directors, had no role in negotiations with the government on the project.

Bechtel issued a statement commenting on an Associated Press report on the uranium enrichment plan, which noted that George P. Shultz and Caspar W. Weinberger, both budget directors under former President Richard M. Nixon, now are on Bechtel's board of

The AP report did not suggest that Shultz or Weinberger was involved in negotiations with the government.

In the discussions between UEA and the federal government on uranium enrichment, George P. Shultz and Caspar Weinberger of Bechtel have had no contact with the federal government. By policy and practice, they have not used and will not use their experience in senior government positions to represent Bechtel or its clients with the federal government,"

Bechtel said Thursday. The Associated Press reported that the proposal by Bechtel, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the Williams Co's. to build a private uranium enrichment plant would require government support that would increase the cost of atomic fuel to consumers some $700 million a year. Quoting from the group's own proposal, testimony by its chairman Jerome W. Komes, an interview with a project officer within the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration and other documentation, the story reported that the private project would: Add its own profit and the cost of federal taxes and royalties to the cost of enriched uranium, which the federal government now processes at cost for atomic utilities

-Require the government to abandon its own non-profit pricing and charge a higher "commercial" price to encourage potential customers to deal with the private plant, whose price would be higher still.

-Require the government to buy part of the private plant's initial output, involving up to $1 billion in tax money, whose lost interest would be repaid by the government's uranium enrichment customers

Bechtel's statement charged, "There are many inaccuracies, distortions, and unsupported conclusions in the Associated Press story on uranium enrichment.

But the statement did not support this with any specific examples.

Asked to cite any inaccuracies in the story, Bechtel's assistant manager for public relations, George Coffey, said he was unable to do so.

Instead, the statement offered a description of benefits seen by Bechtel in the UEA plan.

It said, "Rather than burdening the U.S. budget, the UEA plant will in its normal life earn $3 billion to $4 billion in taxes and royalties paid to the government, and earn for the nation $8 to $10 billion in favorable balance of

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. intelligence analysts say most of the estimated 13,500 Cubans involved in the Angolan civil war remain in the African country, apparently to keep undisciplined pro-Marxist troops in line the country's new leaders organize their regime. But intelligence sources say there apparently has been no major movement of Cuban troops to help Rhodesian blacks hoping to seize control of the neighboring white-ruled country. Such action by the Cubans had been widely predicted after the victory for the Cuban-backed faction in Angola.

Cuban troops are said to control major Angolan ports and an air base near Luanda, the capital. Attention has been focused anew on Cuban and Soviet activities in Africa because of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit to seven African countries, including two that are helping Rhodesian nationalist guerrillas seeking to overthrow white rule in Rhodesia.

At a news conference Thursday, Kissinger again warned Cuba against embarking on military ventures against white supremacist regimes in Africa. And, as he has done before, Kissinger implied that the Cubans are acting in Africa as agents of the Soviet Union

According to recent intelligence information reaching Washington, the Cuban presence in Mozambique still has not become a major one. Mozambique is a main base area for Rhodesian guerrillas.

Earlier this month, U.S. intelligence estimated there were fewer than 100 Cubans in Mozambique.

Guerrilla activity has increased somewhat in Rhodesia, but it still is at a relatively low level. Some analysts have said it will be some time before the Rhodesian insurgents can be whipped into shape for significant military operations against the white forces of Rhodesia.

Woman finds real love in mountains

CINCINNATI (AP) Menerick once thought nothing could be more beautiful than the Great

Now she bemoans the fact that she must give up the mountains of Tennessee for different mountains in West

"My husband used to tell me about those mountains, but I never thought I'd love mountains," she recalled. "But after 30 years of looking, they're just so good to look at every morning that you hate to think that you'll ever quit

Mrs. Menerick, of Charleston, W.Va., is a latecomer in joining the legions of those who love the Appalachian region and who are gathered here for a folk festival which runs through Sunday.

Artisans from 10 Appalachian states ave booths here selling everything from patchwork to rockers. There are quilts from Lost Creek, Ky.; fireside stools from Rock, Cave, W.Va., and hand made wooden furniture from Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

Many of the artisans have spent their lives in the hills, but none of them is any more converted to the region's virtues than Mrs. Menerick.

No extension of tag deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - An April 30 deadline for some Ohioans to obtain new license plates will not be extended, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles cautions.

Registrar Curtis Andrews said all passenger car owners whose last names begin with letters A through K must have 1976 plates by April 30. He said the registration for persons with last names beginning with L through Z will be May 1 through 31.

Andrews said there is a $25 fine for driving a car with expired license

Trucks, trailers and motorcycles can be registered in either April or May, regardless of the owner's last name, Andrews said.

Fish and wild game were the chief foods of Ohio's pioneers, and later corn meal was added to the menu. If baked in an oven the corn product was called "pone;" if baked on a board it took the name of "johnnycake," and balls of meal baked in ovens were called "corn LISTINGS NEEDED

New Hampshire's pine tree rebellion recalled

of New Hampshire, who relied on lumber for their livelihood, British restrictions on the cutting of pine trees sparked rebellion

By KARL SWANSON

Associated Press Writer WEARE, N.H. (AP) — Three years before the Minutemen fired the "shot heard round the world," a band of woodsmen from this southern New Hampshire town struck their first blows against British rule.

On April 14, 1772, the men forced their way into tavern rooms rented to a king's sheriff and his deputy and nearly beat them to death with switches.

The event has become known as the Pine Tree Riot.

The trouble began earlier that year when woodsmen illegally cut into the king's prized lots of white pine. The logs, as straight and true as most Englishmen had ever seen, were stored in several mills in the Weare area.

Since 1690 the white pines in New Hampshire had been reserved for masting ships of the Royal Navy. They were coveted for their size and strength by the Bitish government, which claimed them for the exclusive use of the Crown

The colonists, however, wanted the trees themselves for use in building and furniture making. Thus were drawn the lines of conflict in one of the earliest acts uniting the people of New Hampshire against King George.

When British authorities discovered the store of logs, the mill owners were ordered to show cause why the timber should not be confiscated and the cutters fined.

The mill owners responded with diplomacy. They sent Samuel Blodget of Goosetown on the 40-mile journey to Portsmouth to negotiate with Gov. John Wentworth.

Realizing a potential ally, Wentworth turned the tables and appointed Blodget a "deputy surveyor of the king's woods.'

Returning to Weare, Blodget sent his former employers a letter explaining that as the new deputy surveyor he would have to enforce the law; but he would be loath to turn on his neighbors "unless obstinate or notorious offenders" should force him.

Blodget ordered the cutters to pay a fine, and 17 of them agreed. Only the men from Weare held out.

On April 12, Sheriff Benjamin Whiting, accompanied by a deputy, went to Weare to arrest the recalcitrants. The next day he arrested one offender, Ebenezer Mudgett, and ordered him to post bail. Whiting then retired to a local inn for the night.

News of the sheriff's arrival had spread through the town. At a meeting

Chicken racing taking nation by less than storm

Chickens to their mark, set, go-it's time for the grand and glorious International Chicken Flying Meet at Rio Grande

Actually the chickens do not fly against each other in a race, but they are released one at a time with the flying distance measured to determine the winner

What? You didn't know chickens could fly? Granted, the birds are more accustomed to the frying pan than the wild blue yonder, but they can log some air time when launched from a barn loft, cliff or high place. They don't fly far mind you-163'2" is the official record record set by none other than Lois Laid in 1973-but they do fly.

The extroadinary thing about the Fifth Annual ICFM is that it is taken rather seriously by self-named chicken trainers. The past four years chickens and their owners have been flocking to Rio Grande in May where the clucking and cackling of hopeful winners breaks the sleepy silence of the small town. It's enough to make a bullfrog turn green with jealousy thinking the celebrated jumping contest in Calaveras County, Calif. had been replaced as America's No. 1 inane sport.

The first recorded chicken flying meet was organized by sausage-magnate Bob Evans, it is on his farm near Rio Grande where the meet takes place. This year's meet is scheduled for May 15 at 1 p.m. and any chicken entusiast interested in participating should contact the ICFM promoter at 66 S. Sixth

There is no entry fee for the ICFM, and cash prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in four weight classes.

Last year, 90 birds were entered in the petition. Any chicken of the species gallus Domestica (barnyard variety) is eligible

Only a few basic rules govern chicken flying and little equipment is needed to stage a chicken flying contest.

A long, wide field is needed to serve as the chicken landing area. A roost consisting of a large mailbox on a ten-foot pole serves as the launching pad. The chicken is then placed in the launching pad. No devices (i.e. cattle prods, firecrackers, baseball bats) may be used to induce the entrant to leave the pad.

After the chicken has flown the coop, the distance is measured from the base of the roost to the landing spot. The entrant traveling the farthest is then declared the winner.

Sounds simple doesn't it? So, why not hold such a contest in Fayette County? Surely there are enough fields and chicken around. Competitions are now held in Texas, Arizona, California and Illinois. Chicken flying is also catching on in Bolivia of all places, although it has not replaced soccer as the national sport.

Around the fourth of July would be a good time for a flying meet in Fayette County. For what bird with the exception of the Eagle is more American than a chicken. It could spice up the local Bicentennial celebration.

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics will entertain the Buffalo Braves tonight without captain John Havlicek in the lineup.

Tests show that fascia or connective tissue between his arch and heel is torn, and he will miss tonight's second game of the Eastern Conference National Basketball Association semifinals best-of-seven series.

'Havlicek has a tear in the fascia tissue on the sole of his foot near the heel," team physician Dr. Tom Silva said Thursday.

Virginia Slims Tennis loses sponsorship

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Costs and lack of adequate return has led the Junior League of Akron to drop sponsorship of the Virginia Slims pro women's tennis tournament which had been held annually since 1973.

Sandra Dawson, 1976 tournament director, said the move to the Richfield Coliseum this year inflated costs to the point where it was felt it was no longer worthwhile holding the tournament.

Lions still winless in track

GREENFIELD - History does repeat itself in certain ways' a fine example occurred Thursday in a track meet between Washington C.H. and Greenfield McClain.

McClain edged the Blue Lion tracksters, 67-60, with the final race being the deciding factor. Earlier this season at Wilmington, the Blue Lions lost a meet, 67-60, with outcome also decided after the final race.

In both meets, the Blue Lions went into the mile relay trailing 62-60. Both times, the Blue Lions lost the race and the meet by less than a second. Thursday's loss left Washington C.H.

winless in dual competition this season. McClain and Washington C.H. are both stong sprinting teams. The Blue Lions won two of the three short reaces, and McClain had to look to other events for points.

Joe Cox remained undefeated in five dual meets this season in the 220-yard dash. Cox won the event in :23.5 with teammate Mark Forsythe taking second. The two Blue Lion sprinters also placed one, two in the 100-yard

Randy Seldon, McClain's freshman sensation, had to live with second and thirds until the quarter mile, when he took first beating out Washington C.H.'s Brett Wilson.

Seldon took third in the 220 and placed second in the long jump between Ed DeWees and Mark Forsythe.

Tim Dove and McClain's Roger Czerpak split the two hurdle events. Dove won the lows with Czerpak finishing second and the two exchanged

Hillsboro tracksters give ex-coach rude welcome

HILLSBORO — Up until this year, a Miami Trace loss to Hillsboro in track

made Bill Beatty very happy.

Beatty was the Hillsboro track until this year when he made the move to Fayette County. He turned the Indians into perennial tunnersup to Circleville in the South Central Ohio League the last several seasons. He is trying to accomplish a similar feat at Miami Trace, but the Indian thinclads handed their former coach a 70-52 dual meet loss Thursday

As with Circleville weeks earlier, it was a lack of points in the field events that contributed most to the Panther

Hillsboro held a commanding 35-10 lead before the running events started. "We've got to improve in the field events," Beatty said. "We will have a lot of practice time next week and the week after that. Our pole vaulters and weightmen have shown little improvement in the last month and they should have (improved)," he lamen-

The Panthers even had trouble in their strongest field event, the high jump. Dan Gifford jumped four inches below his record-setting mark to finish second to Hillsboro's Jim Pummell. Art Schlichter, who is usually second behind Gifford in every meet, cleared 5'10" to take third place.

Beatty said he still has confidence in his jumping duo. He attributed the low marks to the jumping facilities at Hillsboro, and he is willing to take a lot of the blame-he had pondered taking ther Panther porta-pits along with him.

The higher the jumper goes; the faster he must approach the crossbar and the farther out he goes. Bags of foam rubber are used for the landing area at Hillsboro, and Beatty claims such landing areas are easy to miss when attempting such heights. He said he was happy just to get the event over with before one of his jumpers was

Hillsboro swept the long jump with some long marks, and the Indians took first and second in both the pole vault and the discus. As in the high jump, the Panthers placed second and third in the Hillsboro kept its string of first place finishes intact by winning the high hurdles and the 100-yard dash.

Bill Hanners broke that string by giving the Panthers five points with his usual win in the mile run. The sophomore distanceman turned in a 5:08 clocking, far above his season best. Beatty said he was saving up for encounter half-mile Hillsboro's Tyler Woods.

Both teams made baton passes outside the exchange areas in the halfmile relay, so no points were awarded in the event. Bill Warnock followed with a first in quarter mile.

Hillsboro placed one, two in the low hurdles ushering in the half-mile matchup between Hanners and Woods, both of whom have covered the distance in 2:03.

Beatty called it the most strategic race he has seen all year as both runners turned in a slow first lap to see what the other would do. They rounded the final turn about even, but Hanners kick was too much for Woods. The win kept Hanners undefeated in the event this season.

Hillsboro took first and second in the 220 and the Panthers turned in a similar finish in the two-mile run with Bryan Lucas taking first and Bill Ooten placing second. The Panthers milerelay team of Warnock, Dave Ritenour, Greg Cobb and Bruce Ervin wrapped up the meet with a win in that event.

Despite the loss Beatty said he is optimistic about the Panthers chances in Saturdays Unioto Relays. He sees the meet as a three-way race for championship trophy with Hillsboro, Miami Trace and Adena in the running.

All field events plus the high hurdles and the 100-yard dash will be scored individually. The rest of the meet will be relays. Field events will begin at 1:30 p.m. and the relay races will start at 4:30 p.m.

Reds hurler still without contract

Gullet denies dragging his feet

CINCINNATI (AP) - Holdout pitcher Don Gullett and his attorney deny that the Cincinnati Reds ace lefthander deliberately reported to spring training late and out of shape to pressure the club into accepting contract terms.

"No way," says Gullett, the only member of the world champions who is playing without a contract. He is scheduled to make his first start of the year Sunday against Montreal

"I have my reasons for not signing and they are personal." said the 25-year-old hurler who has more victories than Sandy Koufax and Warren Spahn did at

Jerry Kapstein, who represents Gullett, called the report "a total falsehood...darn lie.

Gullett admits that one of his reasons was support of the major league players decision to boycott spring training until an agreement was reached with owners.

A lot of guys went down to Florida early and worked out on their own. That was defeating the purpose of the whole thing. I'd rather not say any more about it. I've already said more than I should," he said. Meanwhile, negotiation talks have been at a virtual standstill since prior to the season opener. "The issue is money," said Sheldon (Chief) Bender, director of player personnel who assisted in negotiations. Bender confirmed that the Reds offered Gullett a multiyear contract, but the package was "He won't talk to us without his attorney," said

Kapstein, who represents Gullett and five other Reds, said he is "upset that Don is being portrayed as the only guy who didn't go to spring training early.

"For the record, three out of four ball players stayed home until the camps opened," he said. Kapstein said the package he is seeking for Gullett is "far, far, far less than what Andy Messersmith signed for with Atlanta. He revealed for the first time that the original offer "if accepted by the Reds, would have made Don the fifth highest paid player on the Reds, behind Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan, Pete Rose and Tony Perez."

Bench and Morgan became the Reds first $200,000-a-year players in history this spring. Gullett takes issue with reports that he failed to work out during the winter. 'People seem to think I throw a lot in the off-season. I don't. You can only do so much in a gymnasium. The most I've ever done is throw 20 minutes. I just don't think throwing off a hard floor is any benefit. There are a lot of people not ready to play. In general, the strike hurt everybody," he said.

If he remains unsigned, Gullett would be free to sign with another club next year.

'There are two pitchers in the National League who, when he has his stuff, is feared by batters. One is Tom Seaver and the other is Don Gullett. Don's best years are ahead of him," said Kapstein.

Stamps In The News

If you are a bulk mailer or a stamp collector you will have a decided interest in the new 7.9cent U.S. coil stamp being issued by the U.S. Postal Service April 23. Collectors of U.S. items will not want to miss out on the opportunity for first day covers.

The 7.9-cent denomination meets the new rate for bulk mail which went into effect last Dec. 28 and replaces the 6.3cent bulk rate stamp in use since Oct. 1, 1974. However, unlike the 6.3-center, the new 7.9-and shelter. Older 4-H'ers sharpened selection skills by judging two classes of feeder pigs and one class of feeder lambs. Jerry Hoppes and Rob Frost led the discussion of the classes and gave official placings.

Livestock was provided by Hoppes Happy Hogs and Leo Hartman. Bruce and Jon Ervin and Marilyn Seifried assisted in making arrangements and moving livestock.

Petition circulators target

Four face charges of election fraud

By GEORGE MALEK

Criminal charges were expected to be filed Friday afternoon in Washington C.H. Municipal Court against four persons who circulated referendum petitions to repeal the city's one-half per cent income tax during March.

After two weeks of investigation by the Washington C.H. Police Department, a report has been delivered to city solicitor Gary D. Smith, who will file the charges.

Smith met with Washington C.H.

Police Chief Rodman Scott, two investigating officers, and City Manager George H. Shapter Friday morning in the city office building to discuss the information obtained by the officers.

The preliminary report indicated "gross irregularities," according to one city official. It was also noted, however, that from the statements of those that signed, it appeared many of the signers had been misled by those circulating the documents.

In addition to the charges being filed immediately, other charges are expected next week. Officials refused to comment on whether these were likely to be individual signers or others who circulated the petitions. Police officers are continuing their investigation.

The law makes some distinction between persons who signed the name of another while knowing the other party would like to sign. In many cases, those who signed names other than their own did so for their husband or wife. Although a violation of law, it is covered by a lesser penalty than a blatant attempt to defraud.

The circulators, however, sign the documents before a notary stating that they witnessed the signature of each person whose name appears. The penalty outlined on the petitions themselves warns of a possible sixmonth jail sentence and a fine of $1,000.

Police officers stated that those persons contacted had been extremely cooperative. Statements were reportedly obtained from every individual whose signature had appeared grants of immunity from prosecution were given to those who offered statements, but their cooperation will be considered when their cases are reviewed.

Only one member of the Citizens for Responsible Government committee could be contacted Friday morning. Homer Penwell, 230 Green St., refused to comment on the filing of criminal charges. Faye Washburn, 716 S. North

St., and Barbara Saxton, 543 Warren Ave., could not be reached.

Ten petitions calling for a referendum vote on the former city income tax ordinance had been filed with the city auditor on April 30. Penwell, representing the Citizens for Responsible Government committee, and William F. Stolzenburg, 804 Maple St., presented the petitions to Stackhouse. The 10 documents included some 528 signatures. Some 50 of the signatures appeared questionable to city officials who had them checked by a hand-writing analyst. After a preliminary report from a hand-writing specialist, police officers contacted those persons whose names remained in question. The information collected was then turned over to the city solicitor for prosecution.

The investigation and prosecution of individuals who may have fraudently signed or circulated the petitions was authorized by a resolution of Washington C.H. City Council passed

At the same time, Council repealed the one-half per cent ordinance against which the petitions were filed and enacted a new half per cent tax measure.

City auditor Jack Stackhouse later declared that since the former tax ordinance had been passed as emergency legislation, the petitions did not apply anyway.

The Citizens for Responsible Government committee had claimed that the emergency clause of the ordinance was not legally enacted, and therefore, the tax was subject to a referendum vote.

Cash flow cut sought

State hiring freeze ordered by governor

freeze on all state departments, agencies and institutions was ordered effective today by Gov. James A. Rhodes during a cabinet meeting.

Rhodes also instructed his department heads to review state purchasing requests and to approve orders on items which are needed to maintain critical state services.

'This action is needed to help us cope with cash flow problems next year," Rhodes said in a prepared statement. The Office of Budget and

Management estimates a cash shortage of $230 million for next January, Rhodes said. 'We estimate this freeze will result in savings of $10 million during the remainder of the biennium," Rhodes

Exceptions to the hiring freeze will be made by the director of the budget office to provide health, safety or other vital services. Staffs of elected officials are not effected by the freeze.

Rhodes announced a cutback in state workers last year by two per cent to save money.

As Rhodes made his announcement,

a spokesman for the Department of

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A hiring Transportation said that procedures were being readied to recall the remaining 269 employes laid off for economic reasons in March and April > of last year. The Supreme Court on Wednesday ordered the department to rehire the 345 laid off workers, but the spokesman said 76 of them already had been

> The possibility of another mass layoff is being evaluated now, ODOT Director Richard D. Jackson said, because the employes to be reinstated "were supernumerary when they were laid off year ago and we still don't need

> Jackson said possible cancellation of highway job lettings as well as new solve a financial dilemma resulting from the court's decision.

The high court overturned a ruling by the Franklin County Common Pleas Court which said Jackson was not bound by an order of the state Personnel Board of Review to reinstate the laid off employes. In making its ruling the supreme court said the department had no right to appeal the board's reinstatement orders. The high court also held that the lower court exceeded its authority in hearing Jackson's appeal from the board.

The 345 employes were among 607 ODOT workers laid off because of budget constraints. The layoffs represented 6 per cent of the department's work force

Jackson said at the time the layoffs were caused by decreasing fuel tax revenues, which fund the department, coupled with increasing highway construction costs.

'We lost on a technicality," Jackson said. "The only recourse is legislative." He said he planned to ask for legislation that would permit a department director to challenge decisions by the board of review "when the interest of the state is being sub-

Jackson estimated the cost to the taxpayer to rehire the employes will be approximately $3 million a year, based on the average hourly pay rate of $5.49.

Tax revision bill faces hurdles

revision bill designed to stem unvoted hikes in property taxes has moved closer to a vote in the Senate, but quick passage of the heavily rewritten version appears doubtful. The tax bill, which now carries an effective date of Sept. 1, 1978, was recommended for passage by a subcommittee on Thursday, sending it to the full Senate Ways and Means Com-

That committee has scheduled a hearing on the bill Monday night, and a vote in committee could send the measure to the Senate floor.

But the chance for passage before the legislature's target adjournment late next week appeared questionable. The bill's author, Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, said it is unacceptable to the House in its present form, meaning the measure would have to go to a conference committee after Senate approval for drafting of a compromise.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the bill may not go to Gov. James A. Rhodes until June, when the General Assembly returns to the Capitol for a brief session.

The bill was passed by the House with a flurry of publicity early this year. It was prompted in part by citizen receipt of 1975 tax bills, which included unvoted hikes in those counties undergoing their sexennial reappraisal. The hikes, occurring because of inflation's effect on property values, doubled and tripled bills in some cases. As passed in the House, the legislation would have frozen tax revenues at their 1975 levels. Tax credits would be given homeowners to keep their tax bills relatively stable.

In the Senate, however, the effective date of the bill was changed from 1976 to 1978. That would mean two more years of tax bills under present law. Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, said the new effective date allows the present six-year cycle of property reappraisals to be completed. An effective date this year would come two-thirds of the way through the present reappraisal cycle and may nonuniform valuations which have been outlawed by the Supreme Court, she said.

The bill relies for short term tax relief upon a present Board of Tax Appeals order freezing property appraisals at their 1975 levels.

Subcommittee members said the order, which budget analysts say will amount to a $99 million tax cut over the next two years, will prevent undue hardship on taxpayers while allowing equalization.

After the 1978 effective date, local real property tax revenues would be frozen at their 1978 levels, with the tax credit plan implemented beginning

Daylight time sets spring appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) - Daylight Time begins Sunday. Saving Remember, it's spring ahead, fall If you like to stroll, swat a tennis ball or water the garden in the evening, then come Sunday you'll have an extra hour of light to indulge in all your favorite pastimes. But if you're a farmer or like to jog before breakfast well, sorry

Either way, clocks move forward Sunday one hour for the six months of Daylight Saving Time (DST) from 2 a.m. Sunday to 2 a.m. Oct. 31. And, if you get confused on which direction to move the hands, just remember the saying, "Spring ahead, fall back."

The extra hour may come in handy for Congress as it grapples with proposals to change the system of six months of DST and six months of stand-

Earlier this year, the Senate passed a bill to provide seven months of DST this year and next, from mid-March until mid-October. But inaction by the House Commerce Committee kept it from taking effect in time for the spring.

A House commerce subcommittee tentatively scheduled DST hearings for next month, but they could be delayed further because other types of legislation are deemed more im-

Until some sort of bill clears both houses of Congress, the nation remains on the pattern of six months of DST and six months of standard time each year. The move to extend DST was begun in late 1973 during the peak of the energy crisis. Some advocates contended that longer evening daylight hours, when most persons are awake, can result in an energy savings.

But those opposing DST argue that less daylight in morning endangers school children and inconveniences farmers. They also said DST saved little, if any, energy.

The change to DST will occur across the nation except in Arizona, Hawaii and parts of Indiana.

Gayle Wineriter, one of three federal mediators, said he suggested the weekend break—and the two sides agreed-"to take a couple of days and go back and analyze their positions, then see if we can make some progress when we come back Monday.

Wineriter said both sides are tired. He described a three-hour session Thursday as "a good discussion."

Union president Peter Bommarito, asked if any new offers had been put on the table, said: "We just talked. It was a good discussion. We made some positions clear. We want to narrow the issues."

Bommarito said the union was gaining support from other national and international labor organizations, including the United Auto Workers, who would stand to suffer the most from a prolonged strike since it could eventually shut down assembly plants for lack of tires.

While the auto industry reports it has a supply of 30 to 45 days of tires on hand, and Firestone has said it could withstand a strike of six weeks, Bommarito declared

"I haven't counted tires, but within a relatively short time they'll be in trouble with private brands and certain size tires."

The union says that Firestone produces nearly 40 name brands of tires for other firms such as oil companies and retail chains. According to Bommarito, the $1.65 the union is seeking in the first year alone is "cost-of-living" catch up with the United Auto Workers.

The total union economic demands including wages and benefits amount to 42 per cent, according to Bommarito. The current average wage is $5.50 an hour and benefits average another $3.55

The union has selected Firestone as the target company for an industrywide settlement and also has announced plans for a nationwide consumer boycott scheduled to begin the first week in May if the strike is not settled by then.

(price) very often runs below the wholesale level" because stores use coffee as a "loss leader" to entice customers. The difference is usually only a few cents. Does that mean coffee for $2 and up at retail? "Yes," said Hurt, adding that it takes a couple of months for the wholesale price to be reflected on supermarket shelves.

The country's two largest coffee marketers - General Foods Corp. and Folger Coffee Co., a division of Procter & Gamble Co. - both announced increases at the wholesale level this week. General Foods said the price of green coffee beans has more than doubled since last July and that commodity costs represent 80 per cent of its manufacturing cost.

Hurt, who is with the sugar and tropical products division of the USDA's foreign agricultural service, also said the higher wholesale prices reflect higher prices for raw coffee beans.

A pound of raw coffee beans currently is selling for about $1.25 to $1.30, up from about 70 cents at this time last year. There is a 16 per cent loss in roasting, meaning, for example, that 100 pounds of raw beans purchased for $125 winds up as 84 pounds of roasted beans worth almost $1.50 per pound, not counting the cost of the roasting procedure. The cost of packing, distribution and marketing still must be added.

The present supply of coffee is adequate, although it is below last year's. Hurt said that estimated world coffee production for the 1975-76 crop year is just under 72 million bags; the 1974-75 production was a little more than 80 million bags. A bag is a little more than 132 pounds.

Prices for raw coffee beans have been rising steadily since last July when a severe frost struck Brazil, the world's biggest coffee producer. The frost struck the crop that will be harvested this year, and people started buying coffee in expectation of a shortage. The current high prices, Hurt said, are "in anticipation of tight supplies."

Hurt, who just returned from a trip to Brazil, said the South American country produced 23 million bags of 1976-77 production had been expected to be about 28 million bags. Instead, Hurt said, estimated production is 91/2 or 10

Civil war in Angola, which produces lower grade beans used in items such as instant coffee, and an earthquake in Guatemala, also have cut into worldwide coffee production, but the loss from these countries was less

Stocks take new drop

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market declined broadly today as investors studied the latest jump in the nation's money supply.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points and declining New York Stock Exchange issues held a wide lead on those rising.

Prices had started falling late in the day Thursday as profit taking set in on the market's heady advance earlier in

After the close Thursday, the Federal Reserve Board reported that the nation's money supply jumped by $3.4 billion in the latest reporting week. It was the third straight rise in the money supply and brought its growth rate over nine per cent for the past month - above the Fed's 71/2 per cent long range target growth rate. If the money supply rises too rapidly, the Fed's could move to push up interest rates, a bearish influence on the stock market. Early prices today included Dow Chemical, down ½ at 109¾; Eastman Kodak, off ¾ at 111¾; and Chrysler, down % to 20.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average declined 3.31 to 1,007.71, turning down in mid-afternoon from an earlier advance of more than two points.

Volkswagen to assemble cars in U.S.

WOLFSBURG, West Germany (AP) A major board controlling Volkswagen decided today to give basic approval to a long-delayed $200 million facility in the United States, possibly in Ohio. Two major factions of the supervisory board-labor and government-had already cleared the way for approval. The entire board confronted the proposal today.

Today's decision by the supervisory board, which had been widely predicted, was announced after a 5½hour meeting of the 21 members who oversee VW's top management.

Selection of the site is the responsibility of a second VW board called the management board, rather than the supervisory board. When the management board would announce its, decision was not known.

One of the locations in Ohio under consideration is a 2.4 million square foot facility adjacent to Cleveland Hopkins International Airport. It was built during World War II and produced B29 bombers and P75 fighters.

Another location in Ohio first mentioned today was in Columbus, Ohio. Arthur R. Railton, vice president for corporation relations of Volkswagen of American, said he understood three U.S. cities, including New Stanton, Pa., were running for the assembly plant. Columbus was initially mentioned by

There was no immediate indication where the plant would be located in Columbus. State development officials declined comment.

The Cleveland facility, in the suburb of Brook Park, was now the favorite, according to Railton.

Walters moving

NEW YORK (AP) - Barbara Walters, star of the "Today" show, says she is ending her long association with NBC to coanchor ABC's evening news because "they made me an offer I couldn't refuse."

The ABC offer, which neither the network nor Miss Walters would disclose, reportedly was $1 million a year for five years.

But an NBC spokesman said Thursday that was only "the tip of the iceberg." NBC dropped out of the bidding, he said, because Miss Walters' agent was "dickering for ... a multimillion-dollar specials deal involving her own production company. volving her own production company which would be formed to produce Miss Walters, 43, started with NBC as a staff writer in 1961. She reportedly had been making more than $400,000 a Harry Reasoner, who will be her partner, said he would welcome her "with no reservations" but suggested facetiously that their billing on the show should be decided alphabetically "by last name."

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) - It was as though an occult hand had plucked Mary Hartman off the set of "Mary Hart-man, Mary Hartman," renamed her Louise Lasser and left her stranded on the East Coast, discussing her muchdiscussed series.

Whatever happened, Miss Lasser, a fine actress who plays Mary, wound up braving Fun City's Fourth Estate in the Ambassador Room of some hotel here this week. No doubt she later wondered what Norman Lear hath wrought.

She was 20 minutes late for what the press agent called "an informal press reception." During the wait, scribes chatted, smoked, drank coffee and a young photographer said, "Gee, I don't see any TV people.'

But there was a TV people - a reporter from WNEW, a New York station that airs "Mary Hartman" each week night after the local news.

When Miss Lasser arrived, clad in peasant shirt and faded denims and sipping a glass of grapefruit juice, there was scattered applause and heavy clicking of camera shutters.
She smiled and walked to a podium.

About 15 photographers clustered around her. They shot pictures for at least five minutes.

"God, I hope you all have film in there," she mused, The photogs drew in tighter and tighter. Fortunately, the news conference began.

"How much input do you have in the writing of the show?" one reporter asked. The question and attempted reply disappeared in the cloud of babble that tends to rise from New York press powwows.

Later, in answering another question, Miss Lasser said she was on a week's break, had taped 90 shows so far and would do 40 more to complete the first "Mary Hartman" season.

After that, "it's totally up in the air," she said, explaining that a second season depends on how negotiations go with stations that now air or would like to air the soap opera-comedy in which she stars.

The photographers kept clicking away. Miss Lasser was asked, "Are you becoming Mary?"

"I'm having a problem with it," she conceded, noting that doing five shows a week tends to cause a fusion between her Mary Hartman character and the reality of her own life.

How would Mary behave at a news conference like this, she was asked.

'She'd be much funnier," she replied with a grin.

The conference was nearing an end.
So the only TV reporter attending it stood where viewers could see the news conference he was covering.

He nodded at his film cameraman, picked up his microphone and began talking at the camera in a soft voice. He said he had "a story about Louise Lasser discussing 'Mary Hartman,

Mary Hartman."

Opinion And Comment

Purer air and water

On a nationwide basis Americans are breathing purer air and drinking purer water than than they were five years ago, but there is still a long ways to go in improving these aspects of our environment. This is the central message of the sixth annual report by the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

Progress in reducing of the air and of water supplies has been slower than need be. Economic and political factors have prevented the ap-plication of stringent measures which might have speeded up the

Still, the figures are heartening. The Council reports the following declines in various elements in air pollution: hydrocarbons 5 per cent; sulfur oxides 8 per cent; carbon monoxide 12 per cent; smoke and dust 29 per cent. These are significant air purity gains. Tests at stations around the country also indicate marked improvement in water quality. Poor or severe water quality conditions were found by only 3 per cent of the stations in 1974, the Commission reports, in comparison with 16 per cent in 1961.

The per capita cost was $47 in 1974, and rising. Yet that is little enough to pay for reversing the trend toward a steadily worsening environment.

modern society would fall to pieces without this metal.

Politically, this puts the West in a terrible bind. Two-thirds of the available chrome ore comes from Rhodesia. There is chrome in Russia, in Turkey and in South Africa. The South African chrome is of poor quality and must be mixed with Rhodesian ore for good results. U.S. sources petered out economically some time ago, and what is left in the ground in this country would require such high-cost ex-ploitation that it would be cheaper to pay through the nose to the Russians and Turks for what they would be willing to sell.

In the case of war involving Russia, we would get nothing. The Turks could be another problem; we have not exactly pleased them by our failure to back their aspirations against the Greeks in Cyprus.

The point is that we are probably destined to be wholly dependent on the good will of whatever black government may succeed the minority white regime of Ian Smith in Rhodesia. With two million blacks against 250,000 whites, it is hardly likely that majority rule can be denied in Rhodesia forever.

But Smith, a most tenacious character, may hang on longer than anyone now suspects. And in the meantime, we need chrome. The unemployment in Pennsylvania's unemployment in Pennsylvania's stainless steel country would be unbearable in case we lost it.

We would nonot be getting it directly from Rhodesia if it wee not for the Byrd Amendment, which permits us to bring it into this country despite the UN sanctions against trading with the "illegal" Rhodesian government. Sen. Hubert Humphrey and others on the steering and membership committees steering and membership committees of an organization called Members of Congress for Peace Through Law think we should scrap the Bryd Amendment in order to curry favor with Rhodesian blacks. But this would force us to use up our stockpile of chrome with no assurance that it might be replenished.

It would also send the price of chrome sky-high. Perversely, this might help the Ian Smith government to clean up on the deal by selling through intermediaries to West many and to Russia itself, provided it could still get the chrome to the sea by way of South Africa. High chrome prices would mean a better break for the Rhodesian economy, and blacks would participate in the gains. (There is no economic apartheid in Rhodesia.) The Smith regime might be perpetuated in adversity.

Another trouble with waiting without chrome to see who wins - and when in Rhodesia is that if the Cubans, with the Soviets behind them, are to be the determining factor in any guerrilla overthrow of the Smith regime, we would be dependent on Moscow for every Trident submarine or B-1 bomber we intend to build.

In the estimation of Sen. Harry Byrd Jr. it would be ridiculous to repeal his amendment as long as the time factors affecting Rhodesian change are so uncertain. If a truly neutralist black regime is to take over in Rhodesia, it would want to sell to us anyway, If a pro-Russian, pro-Cuban regime wins, it won't matter what we do about the current UN embargo.

Meanwhile, there is a bare chance that the efforts of Zambia's President Kaunda and South Africa's Prime Minister Vorster to promote a 'detente' between Ian Smith and his black neighbors can be resumed before guerrilla warfare get out of hand.

The only sensible thing for us is to encourage detente here - and to load up with as much chrome as we can. Despite Hubert Humphrey, our stock-piles should be increased, not drawn

Political parties on way out?

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Americans' rejections of institutions as the nation becomes increasingly democratic is one reason Sen. Henry Jackson is having a hard time in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, a political scientist says.

Nonetheless, Dr. Kenneth Kolson, Hiram College professor and a co-author of a new political science textbook, predicts Jackson, D-Wash., will win the Democratic nomination and will face Republican President Ford in Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter "is running hard, but he will be stopped at the convention by Jackson," Kolson said in a recent interview.

"It's ironic, but as America becomes more and more democratic, and affluent and less and less corrupt; as the old political machines die off, as old institutions fade away and politics becomes more acceptable, more middle class; we get less and less tolerant of all those vestiges of the past like political leaders and political parties, Kolson said.

He described political parties as "fundamentally good institutions." He said he would hate to see them disappear but that the nation appears to be headed to a no party system based on the appeal of nonpartisanship.

The problem in today's politics isn't how to give more power to people but rather how to cultivate leaders with the nerve and capability to do what needs to be done, Kolson said.

The candidates for the presidential nomination are all "decent men, probably competent and honest," he said. But the problem is that nobody expects more than that, he added.

"Not only do the people have low expectations of those running, but the candidates have low expectations of themselves," the professor said. "They tell people what they want to hear."

The country needs a bold president and will embrace a candidate of that type wholeheartedly, should one appear, Kolson said.

"We've become cavalier debunking America's place in the world by assuming the Russians and Chinese are really nice guys after all. We should get back to a man we could revere as president," he said.

A Ford-Jackson race would offer voters "at least a choice between two pretty sober, decent, honest men," he added.

Kolson, a graduate of Allegheny College and the University of Ken-tucky, has taught at Hiram for six years. He became head of the political science department in 1974. He also taught Hiram's program in Canadian politics in 1972 at Ottawa and at John Cabot International College in Rome, Italy, last year.

U.S. religious affiliation growing

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Although present-day Christians are inclined to romanticize fondly about church vitality in early America and to bemoan the increasing secularization of modern culture, religious affiliation today is far greater than in the period of the nation's origins.

Historians point out that church membership has gone upward almost steadily in the 200 years of U.S. history, not down, and that it now constitutes a proportion of the population six times greater than in the country's early

The idea that American church activity once flourished and has "subsequently declined is false and the historical perspective involved is unsound," says the Rev. Dr. Franklin H. Littell, a religious historian of Philadelphia's Temple University.

America in its early years overwhelmingly unchurched and heathen, regardless of pretensions and public claims," he writes in his book, From State Church to Pluralism. However, he also notes that requirements for church membership then were much stiffer than now.

This is the sort of probing, factual look at the nation's religious heritage that is scheduled next week, April 25-30, in Philadelphia at an ecumenical Bicentennial conference on religious liberty, sponsored by Protestant, Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Jewish bodies.

A church historian of New York's Union Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. Robert T. Handy, says that no more than 10 per cent of the U.S. population belonged to churches in the post-Revolution period, although greater disciplines for church membership then meant participants doubtlessly

exceeded formal membership. Nevertheless, the present-day religious affiliation involves about 62 per cent of the population, showing an immense growth compared with the small minority included in the earlier period

Even in preindependence colonial times, actual voting church mem-bership involved only a fractional minority, and required not only belief and adherence to church duties, but testimony of a particular "experience" God's redeeming grace. Without of such an experience, full membership was denied.

This meant that even members' offspring, though baptized, might not be acceptable, resulting in a formula by which they became "half-way covenanters," that is conditional partners to the covenant between God and humanity, thus eligible for communion, but without rights of full membership

In the post-Revolution period, the church "picture was not very promising," Dr. Handy writes in his book, "A Christian America." He notes that not only had membership shrunk, but other factors jolted the churches.
State-established churches gradually were being dismantled, cutting off churches from state support and compelling them to make it on their own by voluntary support. Many pulpits were empty, historians say, and American religious institutions were at their weakest ebb.

Church holds farewell fete

'The Magic of Bonsai' is topic of Posy Garden Club meeting

The Posy Garden Club held its annual Open Meeting Wednesday in the annex of the Madison Mills United Methodist Church. Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, program chairman, introduced Col. Don Mortenson from the Ohio State University Cooperative Extension service for the program "Bonsai." Mr. Mortenson is a graduate of Brigham Young University, served in the Air Force for five years and is now a Lt. Colonel in thee USAF Reserves. He is also STAKE president of the Morman Church in Ohio.

Col. Mortenson showed slides of Bonsai trees, taken in Japan and displayed many of his own plants. He explained that there is nothing mysterious magic in growing the miniature trees. When one understands the methods of confining and pruning the roots and pruning and shaping the branches, one will have a plant of beauty that can live forever. Many Japanese bonsai are two and three hundred years old.

Nearly any woody plant or tree can be made into a bonsai. He has a beautiful white azalea, houseplant, that blooms every year, also a pomegranet that blooms and bears fruit. He still has his first bonsai, a Juniper, that is now 20 years old and a beautiful specimen. He has found the growing of bonsai a great hobby, a source of much pleasure with a minimum of effort and has worked with many experts in the field.

Mrs. Jess Schlichter, president, conducted a short business meeting preceding the program. She read an invitation to a May 5 Spring Flower

Show from the Open Gate Garden Club at the Newport Community Hall, and announced the Region 16 Spring meeting in Hillsboro on May 13.

Mrs. Dorothy Bihl announced the winners of the Ecology Contest held annually for the fifth grade at Madison Mills Elementary School. They were Donna Massie. Thomas Dunn. Sherry Donna Massie, Thomas Dunn, Sherry Kaser and Allen Hale.

The club members exchanged perennial plants and distributed trees and purchased in the OAAGC tree sale. Mrs. Hary Thrailkill will be in charge of making a mobile for the Fayette Progressive School workshop Friday assisted by several members. Mrs. Arthur Schlichter told of a recent visit to the large Bonsai Gardens near Sarasota, Fla.

Mrs. Lester Haines was at the registration table, Mrs. Bess Seaman, Mrs. Lyle Hanawalt, Mrs. Thrailkill and Mrs. Easter Woods served punch and cookies, Mrs. Seaman arranged flowers from her garden for the tea

Attending the interesting demonstration and slide lecture were Mrs. Katherine Shonkwiler, Mrs. Evelyn Hatch, Mrs. Shirley Irish and Mrs. Thelma Milner of the Colonial Garden Club, Highland County;

Mrs. Doris Stephenson, of the Town and Country Garden Club; and Mrs. Dorothy Bihl, Mrs. Haines, Mrs. Esther Barrett, Mrs. Jess Schlichter, Mrs. Thrailkill, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. Hanawalt and Mrs. Arthur Schlichter of the Posy Garden Club.

COLONIAL CHICKEN.. an old-fashioned treat with modern ease.

Aroma of baked chicken recalls 'good old days'

Kitchen Nostalgia

. .memories of coming home from church to be met by the smells of chicken baking in the iron stove's

That's how one historian of American foods described the "period of abundance" in the late 19th century when on farms and in small towns home was a place where contentment prevailed and family life often centered around the dining table.

Through the years, whole baked chicken has been a favorite meal all across the nation. In earlier times, chicken was considered a very special treat, served "only on Sunday" and important occasions.

Now, an efficient broiler-fryer industry has made chicken an affordable family food any day, any season of the year. Still, whole baked chicken is the frequent first choice of discerning homemakers for entertaining as well as for notable family meals.

There are several reasons for this. First, baked chicken can be readily turned into a gourmet dish simply by a choice of seasonings. Second, almost everyone likes the natural goodness of chicken so you can depend on it as a main dish your guests will enjoy.

Also baked chicken is easily prepared; it cooks while you turn your attention to the rest of the meal. Nutritionally, chicken provides high quality protein — and it's low in calories. To top it all off, chicken is easy on the budget. While the price of most foods has been soaring, chicken costs no more today than it did 25 years

National Broiler Council suggests baking two whole birds the next time you entertain. Season with lemon juice and herbs, such as basil or tarragon. Serve them with flair on the same platter, to be carved at the table. Or, for a truly old-fashioned treat with modern ease, try the recipe for Colonial Chicken (below). It's a chicken dish any of the Founding Fathers might have enjoyed.

COLONIAL CHICKEN 1 broiler-fryer chicken, whole ½ lemon

1 teaspoon salt 2 small apples, quartered

8 links sausage 1/4 cup applebutter

1/4 cup honey

Rub cavity of chicken with salt. Cut lemon in half and rub outer surface of chicken with juice. Stuff cavity with apple quarters and sausage and tie legs and wings with thread.

Baste entire surface of chicken with honey and applebutter which have been mixed together. Place chicken on foillined, 9x13 pan; lightly cover with foil. Bake in 325 degrees F. oven about one hour or until done. Remove foil for last few minutes to brown chicken and baste again with honey-applebutter mixture. Serve an apple quarter and sausage link with each quarter serving.

Makes 4 servings. BASIC BAKED CHICKEN 2 broiler-fryer chickens, whole

2 teaspoons salt

Sprinkle neck and body cavities of whole chickens with salt. If desired, stuff with favorite stuffing. Hook wing tip onto back to hold neck skin and tie legs together, then to tail. Place chickens directly in a shallow pan; it is not necessary to use a rack. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven for 1 1/2 hours or until tender (add 15 minutes to total baking

For variations: Chicken may be brushed with salad oil, shortening, butter or margarine and seasoned with any of the following herbs - basil, tarragon, rosemary, Or rub outer surface of chickens with lemon juice, add herbs and bake. Celery tops and-or onions may be used for seasoning. Or, the chicken may be baked with fresh fruits and a

Quick and easy tuna dishes

TUNA AND CABBAGE SKILLET 2 cans (61/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil

1/2 cup sliced onion 1/2 cup sliced celery

4 cups shredded cabbage

1 can (8 ounces) seasoned stewed tomatoes 14 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce 2 tablespoons soy sauce

Drain oil from 1 can of tuna into large skillet and heat. Add onion and celery; cook 3 minutes. Add cabbage and cook about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in tuna, tomatoes, Tabasco and soy sauce. Cover; cook 5 minutes longer. Serve immediately.

Yield: 4 servings.
TUNA HASH BROWN BURGERS 1 can (6 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna in

34 cup frozen hash brown potatoes, thawed and drained

1 small onion, chopped (Do not use if frozen potatoes contain onion) 2 eggs, slightly beaten

1/2 teaspoon salt 1/8 teaspoon pepper 3 tablespoons salad oil

In a large bowl mix tuna, thawed drained hash brown potatoes, onion, eggs, salt and pepper. Heat oil in a large skillet. Drop the batter by ¼ cup measure onto hot skillet and brown cakes well on both sides. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot with toppings such as creamed spinach, yogurt, sourcream or sauteed mushrooms. "We had an excellent turnout," Jackson said. "All those people who were there were workers, delegates, fund raisers, people who are organizing the wards, and labor people. All of-ficers and leaders, not rank and file."

Jackson, who claims wide support from labor organizations, said unions are the center of a "great coalition" which he said would put him in the White House.

How to stretch your travel dollars abroad

If you are planning a trip to Paris and for eign exchange is Greek to you, you'll need to prepare more than just an itinerary.

Thousands of Americans are expected to rediscover their roots in Europe this bicentennial summer. For many it will be a first trip abroad. Learning to stretch a travel dollar may be the most important ingredient for a pleasant time.

Several months before you depart, learn about the stability and fluctuation of money in the countries you will visit. Depending upon the movement of the currency in those countries, your U.S. dollar may be worth more now than later.

"It is a good idea for summer travelers to West Germany and Switzerland to buy travelers checks now, denominated in Deutsche marks and Swiss francs," said Richard E. Whiteside, president of the Huntington Book of Workington tington Bank of Washington C.H.

"This is because the U.S. dollar may decline in value relative to the Swiss franc and Deutsche mark over the next few months.'

'However," Whiteside continued, "travelers to France and Italy should consider carrying U.S. dollar travelers checks with them and converting their dollars to French francs and Italian lira as needed while they are in those countries. This is due to anticipation of further strengthening of the U.S. dollar against the currencies of these coun-

In what form should your foreign money be? You have three choices: currency, travelers checks or drafts.

At least a small amount of currency is necessary to use until travelers checks or drafts can be cashed. The currency of some foreign countries may not be readily available locally so give your bank at least two weeks

Travelers checks are best cashed at a local bank in the foreign country for the most advantageous exchange. Hotels, restaurants and shops may charge a higher rate and you'll be the loser.

A foreign draft there is purchased here at an agreed upon exchange rate and payable at a specified European bank. Although he there is no hassle about the rate, these are preferable as a back-up to other types of exchange because of their limited cashing provision. For example, you must cash a draft at a specific foreign bank in a specific town.

It would be advisable to redeem you currency at the airport branch of the local bank before you return home.

Just one last tip: Watch for posted rates for the best exchange. And be aware that the typical practice in Europe is to quote the U.S. rate in terms of foreign currency. This is just the opposite of the practice in this country. For instance, we say one Deutsche mark equals 40 cents. Posted rates in Germany will indicate $1 equals 2.50 Deutsche marks.

How well you do your homework may be the difference between fun and frustration

Or would you rather see America first!

Fresh violence shakes Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - More than 100 persons were killed during the night and more than 200 wounded in heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire between a Moslem enclave in Beirut and Christian districts around it, police reported today.

They said some homes were destroyed in the Nabaa Moslem district and the adjacent Sin El-Fil and Dora quarters. More bodies were believed in the ruins, they reported.

Fighting in the year-old civil war had tapered off Thursday, and only 27 killed and 46 wounded were reported. But hopes that the cease-fire agreed to last weekend was taking hold were badly shaken by the outbreak during the Palestinian leader Abu Iyad, the second in command of Yasir Arafat's Al Fatah guerrilla organization, said the truce cannot take hold until the political stalemate between the leftist Lebanese Moslems and right-wing Christians is resolved.

He said the Higher Military Committee trying to put the cease-fire into effect "agrees on things, but they are not carried out on the battlefields. The problem now is Lebanese and related to a political solution.

Iyad was referring to the refusal of the Christian president, Suleiman Franjieh, to transmit to Parliament his endorsement of a constitutional amendment clearing the way for his replacement before his term expires.

Franjieh met today with special U.S. envoy L. Dean Brown before Brown left for London to report to Secretary of

Review bid by Ohio Bell

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) -Public Utilities Commission of Ohio will take several months to review testimony made during 75 days of hearings on a $214 million rate increase requested by Ohio Bell Telephone Co., a

PUCO spokesman says. The spokesman said the staff is reviewing 15,000 pages of testimony in the hearings which ended Tuesday. A decision will not come until at least this summer, the spokesman said. Among the new rates sought by Ohio Bell is an increase in charges for pay phones to 20 cents per call, charges of 20 cents for information calls after the first three per month and a 37 per cent boost in long distance charges within

Other changes in the rate structure include an increase in installation charges for home phones from $16 to about $36.50, an increase in private residential rates from $8 to $10 and changes in business and optional equipment charges.

Quarterly report reviewed by Help Anonymous board

The advisory board for Help Anonymous, the information and referral service for elderly Fayette Countians, met Wednesday.

Mrs. Marsha Davis, coordinator, presented the quarterly report.

From January 1 through March 31, the service received 627 incoming contacts. A total of 201 outgoing calls to assist clients and follow-up reports made. Housing, financial assistance, and home-help services for persons unable to completely care for themselves were among those areas of services needed and not always available. A concern for the need for qualified persons to stay with senior citizens in their homes was discussed by the board. It was suggested that Mrs. Davis meet with the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services to see if a plan could be worked on to train persons in this area.

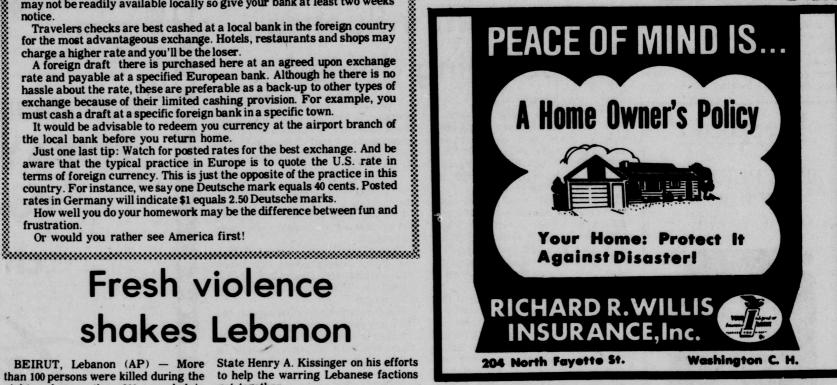

Funds for the information and referral service will probably run out by December 31 as there is a $2,500 shortage in the budget for the year.

Various proposals for raising money were discussed.

Mrs. Davis reported she had spoken to three groups during the quarter, assisted in setting up eight Golden Buckeye registration sites and was working with the Council of Elderly Concerns and the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council to form the Fayette County Committee on Aging. This will be the group responsible for screening and submitting proposals for aging programs in the county.

The first organization of Spanish American War Veterans was formed in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Charity bike ride May 23

The Alpha Theta chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority in Washington C.H. has completed preparations for the fourth annual Million Dollar Bike Ride.

The ride will be held beginning at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 23. The 20-mile ride will begin at the Huntington Bank parking lot off N. Fayette St.

"We've had great support from community merchants and residents during the past rides and we look forward to everyone's help again this year. In the past three years our community has donated approximately $12,000 to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.," said Mrs. Clyde Cramer, chairman of this year's bike ride.

Serving as honorary chairman of this year's event will be Brain Baschnagel, co-captain of the 1975 Ohio State University football team.

The versatile Baschnagel, who was selected in the third round by the Chicago Bears in the annual National Football League draft, was in Washington C.H. early this week to meet with representatives of Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools and sorority members to discuss plans for the bike ride. High school students meeting with Baschnagel were Scott and Loree Johnson of Washington Senior High

Uranium influence peddling denied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The Bechtel Corp., a major partner in Uranium Enrichment Associates, which is proposing a private enrichment plant, says two former White House officials, now Bechtel directors, had no role in negotiations with the government on the project.

Bechtel issued a statement commenting on an Associated Press report on the uranium enrichment plan, which noted that George P. Shultz and Caspar W. Weinberger, both budget directors under former President Richard M. Nixon, now are on Bechtel's board of directors.

The AP report did not suggest that Shultz or Weinberger was involved in negotiations with the government.

'In the discussions between UEA and the federal government on uranium enrichment, George P. Shultz and Caspar Weinberger of Bechtel have had no contact with the federal government. By policy and practice, they have not used and will not use their experience in senior government positions to represent Bechtel or its clients with the federal government," Bechtel said Thursday.

The Associated Press reported that the proposal by Bechtel, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the Williams Co's. to build a private uranium enrichment plant would require government support that would increase the cost of atomic fuel to consumers some $700 million a year. Quoting from the group's own proposal, testimony by its chairman Jerome W. Komes, an interview with a project officer within the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration and other documentation, the story reported that the private project would:

-Add its own profit and the cost of federal taxes and royalties to the cost of enriched uranium, which the federal atomic utilities.

-Require the government to abandon its own non-profit pricing and charge a higher "commercial" price to encourage potential customers to deal with the private plant, whose price would be higher still.

-Require the government to buy part of the private plant's initial output, involving up to $1 billion in tax money, whose lost interest would be repaid by the government's uranium enrichment

Bechtel's statement charged, "There are many inaccuracies, distortions, and unsupported conclusions in the Associated Press story on uranium enrichment."

But the statement did not support this with any specific examples.

Asked to cite any inaccuracies in the story, Bechtel's assistant manager for public relations, George Coffey, said he was unable to do so.

Instead, the statement offered a description of benefits seen by Bechtel in the UEA plan.

It said, "Rather than burdening the U.S. budget, the UEA plant will in its normal life earn $3 billion to $4 billion in taxes and royalties paid to the government, and earn for the nation $8 to $10 billion in favorable balance of

Aileen Campbell, of 783 McLean St., and Donald P. Foster, of 954 Old Chillicothe Road, will be competing for the post in the June primary.

Republican John Pfeifer, of 711

Mrs. Campbell is new to political life. She has never run for committeewoman before, but has been giving the possibility some thought for a couple of years. She said that she has always kept up with politics and believes that most everyone is conscientious of political activities. Mrs. Campbell has been retired for the past nine years. Mrs. Campbell's opponent, Foster, has been a committeeman for 14 years. He is a production supervisor at the RCA plant in Circleville, and believes that by being politically active he has a chance to take part in community decisions.

Pfeifer is running for committeeman for the first time. Self-employed at Pfeifer and Matthews General Contractors. Pfeifer said that he'd been wanting to get into politics since he went to Boy's State while in high school. He stated that he felt there was a need for younger people to become involved in politics.

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. intelligence analysts say most of the estimated 13,500 Cubans involved in the Angolan civil war remain in the African country, apparently to keep undisciplined pro-Marxist troops in line while the country's new leaders organize their regime.

But intelligence sources say there apparently has been no major movement of Cuban troops to help Rhodesian blacks hoping to seize control of the neighboring white-ruled country. Such action by the Cubans had been widely predicted after the victory for the Cuban-backed faction in Angola. Cuban troops are said to control major Angolan ports and an air base near Luanda, the capital. Attention has been focused anew on Cuban and Soviet activities in Africa because of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit to seven African countries, including two that are helping Rhodesian nationalist guerrillas seeking to overthrow white rule in Rhodesia. At a news conference Thursday, Kissinger again warned Cuba against embarking on military ventures against white supremacist regimes in Africa. And, as he has done before, Kissinger implied that the Cubans are acting in Africa as agents of the Soviet

According to recent intelligence information reaching Washington, the Cuban presence in Mozambique still has not become a major one. Mozambique is a main base area for Rhodesian guerrillas.

Earlier this month, U.S. intelligence estimated there were fewer than 100 Cubans in Mozambique.

Guerrilla activity has increased somewhat in Rhodesia, but it still is at a relatively low level. Some analysts have said it will be some time before the Rhodesian insurgents can be whipped into shape for significant military operations against the white forces of Rhodesia.

Woman finds real love in mountains

CINCINNATI (AP) Menerick once thought nothing could be more beautiful than the Great

Now she bemoans the fact that she must give up the mountains of Tennessee for different mountains in West

"My husband used to tell me about those mountains, but I never thought I'd love mountains," she recalled. "But after 30 years of looking, they're just so good to look at every morning that you hate to think that you'll ever quit looking."

Mrs. Menerick, of Charleston, W.Va., is a latecomer in joining the legions of those who love the Appalachian region and who are gathered here for a folk festival which runs through Sunday.

Artisans from 10 Appalachian states have booths here selling everything from patchwork to rockers. There are quilts from Lost Creek, Ky.; fireside stools from Rock, Cave, W.Va., and hand made wooden furniture from Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

Many of the artisans have spent their lives in the hills, but none of them is any more converted to the region's virtues than Mrs. Menerick.

No extension of tag deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - An April 30 deadline for some Ohioans to obtain new license plates will not be extended, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles cautions.

Registrar Curtis Andrews said all passenger car owners whose last names begin with letters A through K must have 1976 plates by April 30. He said the registration for persons with last names beginning with L through Z will be May 1 through 31.

Andrews said there is a $25 fine for driving a car with expired license

Trucks, trailers and motorcycles can be registered in either April or May, regardless of the owner's last name, Andrews said.

Fish and wild game were the chief foods of Ohio's pioneers, and later corn meal was added to the menu. If baked in an oven the corn product was called a "pone;" if baked on a board it took the name of "johnnycake," and balls of meal baked in ovens were called "corn LISTINGS NEEDED

New Hampshire's pine tree rebellion recalled

of New Hampshire, who relied on lumber for their livelihood, British restrictions on the cutting of pine trees sparked rebellion.

By KARL SWANSON Associated Press Writer

WEARE, N.H. (AP) - Three years before the Minutemen fired the "shot heard round the world," a band of woodsmen from this southern New Hampshire town struck their first blows against British rule.

On April 14, 1772, the men forced their way into tavern rooms rented to a king's sheriff and his deputy and nearly beat them to death with switches.

The event has become known as the Pine Tree Riot.

The trouble began earlier that year when woodsmen illegally cut into the king's prized lots of white pine. The logs, as straight and true as most Englishmen had ever seen, were stored in several mills in the Weare area.

Since 1690 the white pines in New Hampshire had been reserved for masting ships of the Royal Navy. They were coveted for their size and strength by the Bitish government, which claimed them for the exclusive use of the Crown.

The colonists, however, wanted the trees themselves for use in building and furniture making. Thus were drawn the lines of conflict in one of the earliest acts uniting the people of New Hampshire against King George. When British authorities discovered the store of logs, the mill owners were ordered to show cause why the timber should not be confiscated and the

The mill owners responded with diplomacy. They sent Samuel Blodget of Goosetown on the 40-mile journey to Portsmouth to negotiate with Gov. John Wentworth.

Realizing a potential ally, Wentworth turned the tables and appointed Blodget a "deputy surveyor of the king's woods."

Returning to Weare, Blodget sent his former employers a letter explaining that as the new deputy surveyor he would have to enforce the law; but he would be loath to turn on his neighbors "unless obstinate or notorious of-fenders" should force him.

Blodget ordered the cutters to pay a fine, and 17 of them agreed. Only the men from Weare held out.

On April 12, Sheriff Benjamin Whiting, accompanied by a deputy, went to Weare to arrest the recalcitrants. The next day he arrested one offender, Ebenezer Mudgett, and ordered him to post bail. Whiting then retired to a local inn for the night.

News of the sheriff's arrival had spread through the town. At a meeting

Park officials, determined and weary after more than a week of trying to lure 50 baboons back into a compound from which they escaped last Wednesday, finally were able to recapture 40 of the animals Thursday.

The rest of the baboons were expected to be safely back in their cages today in time to be shipped back to the company in Michigan which sold them

The baboons succumbed to heavy doses of tranquilized fruit and also to a wooden trap which successfully caught many of the animals during its initial

The baboons escaped from an "escape-proof" compound, which had proven successful at other parks. They eluded an electrically wired fence which had been set up to keep them in once they were lured back.

Chicken racing taking nation by less than storm

Chickens to their mark, set, go-it's time for the grand and glorious International Chicken Flying Meet at Rio Grande. Actually the chickens do not fly against each other in a race, but they are released one at a time with the flying distance measured to determine the

What? You didn't know chickens could fly? Granted, the birds are more accustomed to the frying pan than the wild blue yonder, but they can log some air time when launched from a barn loft, cliff or high place. They don't fly far mind you-163'2" is the official record record set by none other than Lois Laid in 1973—but they do fly. The extroadinary thing about the Fifth Annual ICFM is that it is taken rather seriously by self-named chicken trainers. The past four years chickens and their owners have been flocking to Rio Grande in May where the clucking and cackling of hopeful winners breaks the sleepy silence of the small town. It's enough to make a bullfrog turn green with jealousy thinking the celebrated jumping contest in Calaveras County, Calif. had been replaced as America's No. 1 inane sport.

The first recorded chicken flying meet was organized by sausage-magnate Bob Evans, it is on his farm near Rio Grande where the meet takes place. This year's meet is scheduled for May 15 at 1 p.m. and any chicken entusiast interested in participating should contact the ICFM promoter at 66 S. Sixth St., Columbus.

There is no entry fee for the ICFM, and cash prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in four weight classes.

Last year, 90 birds were entered in the petition. Any chicken of the species gallus Domestica (barnyard variety) is eligible.

Only a few basic rules govern chicken flying and little equipment is needed to stage a chicken flying contest.

A long, wide field is needed to serve as the chicken landing area. A roost consisting of a large mailbox on a ten-foot pole serves as the launching pad. The chicken is then placed in the launching pad. No devices (i.e. cattle prods, firecrackers, baseball bats) may be used to induce the entrant to

After the chicken has flown the coop, the distance is measured from the base of the roost to the landing spot. The entrant traveling the farthest is then declared the winner.

Sounds simple doesn't it? So, why not hold such a contest in Fayette County? Surely there are enough fields and chicken around. Competitions are now held in Texas, Arizona, California and Illinois. Chicken flying is also catching on in Bolivia of all places, although it has not replaced soccer as the national sport.

Around the fourth of July would be a good time for a flying meet in Fayette County. For what bird with the exception of the Eagle is more American than a chicken. It could spice up the local Bicentennial celebration.

John Havlicek out of Celtics lineup

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics will entertain the Buffalo Braves tonight without captain John Havlicek in the lineup.

Tests show that fascia or connective tissue between his arch and heel is torn, and he will miss tonight's second game of the Eastern Conference National Basketball Association semifinals best-of-seven series.

'Havlicek has a tear in the fascia tissue on the sole of his foot near the heel," team physician Dr. Tom Silva said Thursday.

Virginia Slims Tennis loses sponsorship

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Costs and lack of adequate return has led the Junior League of Akron to drop sponsorship of the Virginia Slims pro women's tennis tournament which had been held annually since 1973.

Sandra Dawson, 1976 tournament director, said the move to the Richfield Coliseum this year inflated costs to the point where it was felt it was no longer worthwhile holding the tournament.

GREENFIELD — History does repeat itself in certain ways' a fine example occurred Thursday in a track meet between Washington C.H. and Greenfield McClain.

Hillsboro tracksters give ex-coach rude welcome

HILLSBORO — Up until this year, a foam rubber are used for the landing Miami Trace loss to Hillsboro in track

made Bill Beatty very happy.

Beatty was the Hillsboro track until this year when he made the move to Fayette County. He turned the Indians into perennial tunnersup to Circleville in the South Central Ohio League the last several seasons. He is trying to accomplish a similar feat at Miami Trace, but the Indian thinclads handed their former coach a 70-52 dual meet loss Thursday.

As with Circleville weeks earlier, it was a lack of points in the field events that contributed most to the Panther

Hillsboro held a commanding 35-10 lead before the running events started. "We've got to improve in the field events," Beatty said. "We will have a lot of practice time next week and the week after that. Our pole vaulters and weightmen have shown little improvement in the last month and they should have (improved)," he lamen-

The Panthers even had trouble in their strongest field event, the high jump. Dan Gifford jumped four inches below his record-setting mark to finish second to Hillsboro's Jim Pummell. Art Schlichter, who is usually second behind Gifford in every meet, cleared 5'10" to take third place.

Beatty said he still has confidence in his jumping duo. He attributed the low marks to the jumping facilities at Hillsboro, and he is willing to take a lot of the blame-he had pondered taking ther Panther porta-pits along with him.

The higher the jumper goes; the faster he must approach the crossbar and the farther out he goes. Bags of Hillsboro kept its string of first place finishes intact by winning the high hurdles and the 100-yard dash.

Bill Hanners broke that string by giving the Panthers five points with his usual win in the mile run. The sophomore distanceman turned in a 5:08 clocking, far above his season best. Beatty said he was saving up for half-mile encounter Hillsboro's Tyler Woods.

Both teams made baton passes outside the exchange areas in the halfmile relay, so no points were awarded in the event. Bill Warnock followed with a first in quarter mile.

Hillsboro placed one, two in the low hurdles ushering in the half-mile matchup between Hanners and Woods, both of whom have covered the distance in 2:03

Beatty called it the most strategic race he has seen all year as both runners turned in a slow first lap to see what the other would do. They rounded the final turn about even, but Hanners kick was too much for Woods. The win kept Hanners undefeated in the event

similar finish in the two-mile run with Bryan Lucas taking first and Bill Ooten placing second. The Panthers milerelay team of Warnock, Dave Ritenour, Greg Cobb and Bruce Ervin wrapped up the meet with a win in that event. Despite the loss Beatty said he is optimistic about the Panthers chances in Saturdays Unioto Relays. He sees the meet as a three-way race for championship trophy with Hillsboro, Miami Trace and Adena in the running.

All field events plus the high hurdles and the 100-yard dash will be scored individually. The rest of the meet will be relays. Field events will begin at 1:30 p.m. and the relay races will start at 4:30 p.m.

Gullet denies dragging his feet

and and an articles and articles and articles are articles and articles are articl

CINCINNATI (AP) — Holdout pitcher Don Gullett and his attorney deny that the Cincinnati Reds ace lefthander deliberately reported to spring training late and out of shape to pressure the club into accepting

'No way," says Gullett, the only member of the world champions who is playing without a contract. He is scheduled to make his first start of the year Sunday against Montreal.

"I have my reasons for not signing and they are personal." said the 25-year-old hurler who has more victories than Sandy Koufax and Warren Spahn did at

Jerry Kapstein, who represents Gullett, called the report "a total falsehood...darn lie."

Gullett admits that one of his reasons was support of the major league players decision to boycott spring training until an agreement was reached with owners.

"A lot of guys went down to Florida early and worked out on their own. That was defeating the purpose of the whole thing. I'd rather not say any more about it. I've already said more than I should," he said. Meanwhile, negotiation talks have been at a virtual standstill since prior to the season opener 'The issue is money," said Sheldon (Chief) Bender, director of player personnel who assisted in negotiations. Bender confirmed that the Reds offered Gullett a multiyear contract, but the package was

"He won't talk to us without his attorney," said

Kapstein, who represents Gullett and five other

Reds, said he is "upset that Don is being portrayed as the only guy who didn't go to spring training early. 'For the record, three out of four ball players stayed home until the camps opened," he said. Kapstein said the package he is seeking for Gullett is "far, far, far less than what Andy Messersmith signed for with Atlanta.' He revealed for the first time that the original offer "if accepted by the Reds, would have made Don the fifth highest paid player on the Reds, behind Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan, Pete Rose and Tony Perez." Bench and Morgan became the Reds first $200,000-a-year players in history this spring. Gullett takes issue with reports that he failed to work out during the winter. "People seem to think I throw a lot in the off-season.

I don't. You can only do so much in a gymnasium. The most I've ever done is throw 20 minutes. I just don't think throwing off a hard floor is any benefit.

"There are a lot of people not ready to play. In general, the strike hurt everybody," he said.

If he remains unsigned, Gullett would be free to sign with another club next year.

'There are two pitchers in the National League who, when he has his stuff, is feared by batters. One is Tom Seaver and the other is Don Gullett. Don's best years are ahead of him," said Kapstein.

Featured is a drum upon which an American eagle is superimposed. A pair of drum sticks appears in the foreground. Except for the eagle, the drum is similar to the ones depicted in the famous painting "The Spirit of '76." Across the bottom and up the right side is the inscription

A new 35-c stamp has been issued by the Netherlands to commemorate the 250th anniversary of its National Lottery. There are now 11 lotteries held each year by the Netherlands' government and regulated by law. The design of the new stamp depicts a lottery ticket from 1726, the year the National Lottery was first officially introduced, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The ticket bears the inscription which says "Luck is Better than Skill." Also appearing on the stamp is a conception of Dame Fortune or Lady Luck.

The new spring-summer 1976 edition of the Harris U.S.-British North America Catalog is now off the presses. It is the only major catalog which is revised twice a year to up-date the prices of the stamp items. This latest 218-page edition features more than 10,000 price changes, the most ever in the catalog's 40 years of publication. The catalog includes U.S. postage and airmail issues plus postage dues, special delivery, parcel post, revenues and such specialties as plate blocks, first day covers, etc. Coverage is also afforded to Canada and each of its provinces as well as to the United Nations.

It is now available at stamp dealers for $1.50 or can be obtained direct from the publisher by sending $1.50 plus 50 cents postage and handling to: H.E. Harris & Co., US-BNA Dept., Boston, Mass. 02117.

How valuable is a rare stamp? Well, the "Black Honduras" airmail stamp - overprinted in 1925 - the only known copy in existence — is catalogued at $50,000.
